APARTMENT BUILDING—Four apartment buildings such as the one sketched here will be constructed at Academy Boulevard and San Miguel Street by Bill Smartt, Colorado Springs building contractor and area developer, for Air Force personnel. The buildings will be of stone and concrete construction, each with 30 apartments. Architect on the project is Walter E. Burgess.

ENGINEERING BUILDING—Seen here is an architect's drawing of the building to be erected for Spear Engineering Co., manufacturing and mail order firm, now located at 3107 Stone St. Plans are now being drafted, and are due to be completed so construction work can start in about 90 days. The building will be located on Murray Road a short distance north of the Starlite Drive-in Theatre.

$1.83 Million in New Construction Announced

Three new construction projects totaling $1.83 million are scheduled to get underway soon in the fast-growing east edge of town.

The country's largest manufacturing mail order company, located in Colorado Springs, will move into a new plant in Austin Estates, on the east side of the city; a Colorado Springs paint and floor covering store will move into a new building now under construction, and an apartment complex of four buildings will be constructed here soon. Bill Smartt, construction contractor and developer, announced Friday at a press conference at the Red Carpet restaurant, 999 N. Circle Dr.

The manufacturing company, Spear Engineering, now located at 3107 Stone St., will occupy a 10,000-square-foot building on Murray Road just north of the Starlite Drive-in Theatre in a newly annexed area being developed in northeast Colorado Springs by Smartt Realty Co.

Sorenson's Inc., 2127 E. Pikes Peak Ave., which celebrated its 10th anniversary last month, will move into a new building being put up on Circle Drive north of Pikes Peak Ave. And the new apartment project will go up at Academy Boulevard and San Miguel Street.

The Spear building will cost an estimated $120,000, the Sorenson building about $111,000 and the apartment buildings, including furnishings, about $1.6 million.

Smartt said the four apartment buildings will have 30 apartments each and will be rented for Air Force personnel for $105 per room per month. The buildings will be of stone and concrete construction and be two stories high.

Sorenson's building, twice the size of that now occupied by the company, will contain 8,200 square feet of space. Work on the project was started Monday morning by Ken Charlesworth, developer, from whom Sorenson will buy the building.

Sorenson, who was at the press conference, as was Wendell Spear, head of the manufacturing company, said he will move into the new concrete and steel building the first part of January. He will add five employees to his staff.

Sorenson opened his new business Oct. 16, 1953, after purchasing the Beckett Linoleum Store, 1008 W. Colorado Ave., which Beckett started in 1948. The business later moved to 2103 E. Platte Ave., then to 2318 E. Bijou St. and in May, 1961, to 2127 E. Pikes Peak Ave. Increased business, he said necessitated moving to larger quarters.

Spear Engineering Co. was started a little more than 14 years ago by Spear, who resigned as president of the Standard Churn Co., a concern owned by the Dazey Manufacturing Co., so he and Mrs. Spear could return to Colorado.

From a one-man operation in a building at the former Jennings Turkey Ranch in Knob Hill, Spear Engineering has grown to a company employing 25 persons the year around and as many as 45 at times. Spear plans to increase the size of his labor force in his new building.

Before heading the Standard Churn Co., which manufactures butter churns and bee keeping equipment, Spear was employed for 13 years by Westinghouse. As a boy, he said, he lived in Querida, Colo., and for

Hamburger Is Favorite, Pizza Gaining Rapidly

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Say mom, you know that junior's favorite dish is a hamburger, but did you know pizza is gaining fast?

And how about you, dad—did you know that your daughter doesn't go for any creamed foods?

School children also say "Ugh" to liver, or for that matter, any iron and protein-rich food, no matter how you serve it.

That's the opinion of several experts who ought to know—supervisors of school lunch programs who are attending the 17th Annual Convention of the American School Food Service Association.

What will children eat? First choice: hamburgers, followed by hot dogs, peanut butter, fried chicken, flavored gelatin, oatmeal cookies, oversized sandwiches and "anything in a roll," they said.

These foods appear to cut across the regional tastes and economic backgrounds and are eaten with equal gusto by children from high-income and low-income brackets alike.

Among the major dislikes: casseroles, meats that need to be cut with a knife; salads with mayonnaise; mixed vegetables, no matter what they are; asparagus, broccoli, cauliflower and you guessed it, spinach.

"The children like simple foods, nothing camouflaged with sauces and creams, said Mrs. Anne W. Malley, North Carolina State Foods Supervisor, Raleigh, N. C. "They like foods they can eat with their fingers."

In order to get federal assistance, schools must serve lunches consisting of at least a half-pint of milk; two ounces of protein-rich food such as meat, fish, fowl or cheese; three-quarters of a cup of vegetable or fruit; two teaspoons of butter, and one slice of enriched bread.

What's the most popular new dish being served in the schools these days? Pizza, all agreed.

Russ Barnett, program director of KMPC radio, said yesterday, "it's pretty strong integration advocacy. KMPC would rather avoid editorializing through music."

Bud Granoff, the record's producer, said the record sold 185,000 copies the first three days of its release. He said seven of 11 Los Angeles radio stations have refused to play it.

168 Gaming Stamps Purchased in State

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) has reported 168 illegal gaming device stamps were purchased in Colorado and 233 were sold in Wyoming during the fiscal year ended June 30.

The stamps cost $250 each and are required by the federal government.

The IRS also said one wagering stamp was sold in Colorado and 105 were sold in Wyoming at a price of $50 apiece.

The IRS collected a total of $42,050 in Colorado and $63,500 in Wyoming.

Bus Drivers Schedule Strike Midnight Sunday

Colorado Springs bus drivers will go on strike at midnight Sunday, a union official said here Friday.

The strike deadline was set after the last of a series of talks between the Colorado Springs Transit Co. and the union broke off Friday.

Neither side would move from their positions despite the efforts of Federal Mediator Sherman Hodges of Denver.

"The men will walk off their jobs starting with the first runs Monday morning," C. M. Shaw, international vice president of the transit workers union said after Friday's meeting.

He said that the union would be willing to meet with the company prior to the strike deadline. However, such a meeting seems highly unlikely at this late date.

The company has offered the men an 8-cent an hour increase for the new two-year contract. Members of the union unanimously rejected the proposal last week.

Shaw revealed that the union has reduced its demands but declined to elaborate.

"Let me just say that they are substantially less than the original proposal," he said.

The union had asked for 18 cents an hour for the contract plus fringe benefits. At one time, bus company officials said that the union had reduced its demands to 12 cents an hour. This was denied by union officials at the time.

Shaw said he would remain in Colorado Springs over the next few days. He said he was hopeful of enduring the dispute without having to resort to strike measures.

Shaw said that the company has again refused a union proposal. (Turn to Page 5, Column 8)

Mice Taking Over Part of California

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Southern California is having a mouse explosion.

Beverly Hills has mice. So has Bel Air. The Hollywood hills are teeming with them. A few have been known to share swimming pools—briefly—with swimmers.

In Thousand Oaks, in Ventura County, schoolboys were trapping them for 10 cents a mouse—but householders had to cut the rate. Too many mice.

"Every time I stock the shelves with mousetraps," said a grocer, wincing appropriately at his own joke, "they get snapped up."

A Laguna Beach man turned down a $50 offer for a 10-mouse-a-day siamese.

There are even mice in the halls of ivy at UCLA. First they were in the ivy. Now they're in the halls. Someone called the rodentology office last week to ask if they had someone who could play a pipe, and lead a small parade.

Mice are invading places where they've never been seen before.

Don Rohe, an officer of the State Department of Public Health, explains: "Partly it's the normal cyclic increase common to a number of small mammals. The last time we had mice in anything (Turn to Page 5, Column 6)

5 Freed From Georgia Jails By Court Order

AMERICUS, Ga. (AP)—Five integration leaders were released from jail on bond Friday under a federal court order following a decision striking down a 19th century Georgia insurrection law and an unlawful assembly statute.

The five, three white men and two Negroes, along with a 14-year-old Negro girl were freed on bail. They had been held nearly three months. Bond had been denied the girl, and four of the men who were charged with trying to incite insurrection.

Two other Negro prisoners, Artis and Marvin Brown, were released under bond of $500 each as a result of the order. They had been in jail since August, charged with resisting arrest, disorderly conduct and failing to obey officers.

In a 2-1 decision, a three-judge court issued an injunction barring prosecution of charges under the two statutes. The order itself went further and set a deadline of 6 p.m. Friday for release of all six prisoners under bond on other charges, including rioting, aiding escape, resisting arrest and assault.

Judge Elbert P. Tuttle of Atlanta, chief judge of the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals, and U.S. District Judge Lewis R. Morgan of La Grange, Ga., concurred in the majority opinion and injunction order which would have prohibited prosecution of all charges if the prisoners had not been admitted to bail.

Bonds of $2,500 were signed by John Barnum, wealthy Negro. (Turn to Page 5, Column 9)

Morocco Troops Observe Truce

RABAT, Morocco (AP)—Algerian troops attacked the frontier town of Figuig and Moroccan troops were ordered to withdraw and not fight back, King Hassan II announced Friday. Figuig is just inside Morocco.

The king somberly told a news conference his government intends to abide by a pledge made Wednesday in Bamako, Mali, to cease hostilities and seek a negotiated solution of border problems with Algeria.

He spoke 10 hours before a midnight cease-fire was to be effective.

There were dead and wounded in the Algerian attack, the king said. He said he feared Moroccan troops would have had to pull back by the time he was speaking.

Coup Leader Is Buddhist

TOKYO (AP)—Gen. Duong Van Minh, the man believed to have led the military group that staged the coup in South Viet Nam this week, was once the military adviser of ousted President Ngo Dinh Diem.

Americans in Viet Nam reportedly think that he is a fine officer. Minh is a Buddhist, in contrast to the ousted president and his brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, who are Catholics.

The general is French-trained and considered to be one of the country's top soldiers.

Minh made his reputation in 1955 when he helped Diem clean up the Saigon crime lords.

Pres. Diem was not sure of Minh's loyalty, and consequently the general has had no troops under direct command lately.

Gas Tank Valve Blamed For Ice Show Explosion

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—A ruptured valve on a gas tank may have triggered a mighty explosion that killed at least 63 persons and injured 341 in a nightmarish finale to a gay Halloween ice show, investigators said Friday.

Many of the broken and burned injured were reported in critical condition in crowded hospitals and authorities feared the toll would climb.

Authorities said the broken valve may have permitted odorless, "packaged" butane gas to escape and become ignited by food heating equipment at refreshment counters beneath the concrete-floored stands of Indiana's Coliseum.

State Fire Marshal Ira Anderson said two gas experts from Chicago and Boston were en route to Indianapolis to help determine the origin of the compressed gas blast.

The catastrophe was the worst in the city's history. The explosion ripped through the concrete floor beneath a section of $3.30 box seats and hurled men,

Gas Heater Blamed for Georgia Blast

MARIETTA, Ga. (UPI)—A Halloween mask for a little boy, medicine for a sick aged man—these were among the purchases the seven victims were seeking when death caught up with them Thursday night in a self-service drug store.

The store was reduced to a warring shell by a blast which also resulted in 27 injuries. Experts said the explosion was caused by gas apparently leaking from a heater in the shallow basement.

The strength of the blast was such that it tumbled the soda fountain into the basement and spread shreds of glass and debris over the court house square, where hundreds had gathered for a Halloween celebration.

Among the victims was 33-year-old Joe Ben Carter and his son, Terry, 7.

"They were holding hands when they walked in. They were going to buy Terry a mask," an uncle said.

Zephyr Strikes Auto, 1 Killed

PALISADE, Colo. (AP)—The California Zephyr, Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad passenger train, struck an automobile at a crossing today.

One man, Stanley M. Harvey, 49, of Mesa, was killed and Howard Crump, 18, was injured. He was taken to a Grand Junction hospital.

The train was eastbound for Denver after leaving Grand Junction. Its engineer was William Linkins of Grand Junction.

No one aboard the train was reported injured.

Harvey's death raises the state traffic fatality toll for this year to 417, or 38 more than in the same 1962 period.

Diem, Nhu Arrested By Military

By FORREST EDWARDS

TOKYO (AP)—South Viet Nam's military chiefs reported Saturday they have driven President Ngo Dinh Diem and his autocratic ruling family from power in a 14-hour coup that rocked Saigon with violence.

Foreign diplomatic sources with contacts in Saigon said reports of the family overthrow were true.

In a dawn broadcast, the voice of the Armed Forces, a Saigon station, said Diem and his brother, secret police boss Ngo Dinh Nhu, had surrendered unconditionally.

The two had held out in the presidential palace from around noon Friday until 6:05 a.m. Saturday despite attacks by

Report Ngo Brothers Dead

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Embassy in Saigon relayed a Saigon Radio broadcast Friday night that President Ngo Dinh Diem and his brother, Nhu, have committed suicide.

State Department officials said the terse dispatch declared that Diem and Nhu escaped after being taken into custody at the presidential palace and fled to a church where they took asylum.

The two brothers were reportedly recaptured, the Saigon Radio said, and declared that they subsequently committed suicide. There were no further details. The message from Saigon Radio, however, placed the time of the double suicide at 10:45 a.m. local time (9:45 p.m. EST). The broadcast account followed 15 minutes later.

Madame Nhu Says Americans Part of Coup

By DORIS KLEIN

LOS ANGELES (AP)—South Viet Nam's tart-tongued Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu, appearing tense and angry, said Friday a coup could not have happened in her country "without American incitement or American backing."

The controversial first lady of the Asian country, whose husband, according to one report, may have been slain in the uprising against the regime she Madame Loses Wrinkles?

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI)—Mme. Ngo Dinh Nhu secretly underwent plastic surgery to remove eye wrinkles, the Santa Monica Outlook reported Friday.

She slipped out of her hotel early Thursday wearing a blonde wig as a disguise, the newspaper reported.

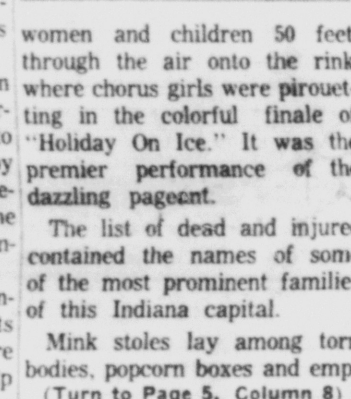

According to a story published in Friday's afternoon edition, Mme. Nhu registered Thursday at 7:30 a.m. at the Beverly Hills Doctors Hospital as "Mrs. J. Smith" and left the hospital at 12:35 a.m. Friday.

She had undergone minor eye surgery Thursday.

The hospital confirmed "Mrs. J. Smith" was a patient Thursday. But the spokesman was unable to confirm specifically that it was Mme. Nhu. However, Police Chief Clinton Anderson visited Mme. Nhu in her suite Friday and said she had undergone minor eye surgery Thursday.

SODERHOLM FAMILY

New Navigators Serve Military In Germany

Special commissioning services will be held Sunday, 7:30 p.m., at the Evangelical Free Church, Fontanero and 30th St., for Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Soderholm, Navigator appointees to servicemen's work in Frankfurt, Germany.

Rev. John N. Hedlund, pastor of the church, will be in charge of the service.

Soderholm first contacted the Navigators while in the Navy, and began working with servicemen.

He received his degree in education from Kearney State Teachers College in Nebraska and did work toward a Masters degree at Long Beach State College and the University of Maryland. Following a year at the Long Beach Servicemen's Center, he and his family spent a year at Glen Eyrie, Navigator headquarters. In 1960 they moved to Lexington Park, Md. where Soderholm taught junior high mathematics and worked among servicemen from nearby Patuxent River Naval Air Station. Returning to Glen Eyrie this summer, Soderholm assisted with adult summer conferences.

Soderholm and his wife, Joyce, have three daughters: Jayne, Marian and Pamela.

Year's Program Is Stewardship Dinner Theme

Foundations of the coming year's program at First Lutheran Church, 1515 N. Cascade Ave. will be laid Sunday at the annual stewardship dinner.

The dinner will begin at 5 p.m. in Carpenter's Hall and will feature films made of activities within the parish and within the Rocky Mountain Synod, Lutheran church in America.

One of the filmstrips, "Our Parish," was produced by James Winck, director of the program. It tells the story of First Lutheran Church in 1963 with emphasis on activities supported by the offerings of its members.

Script for "Our Parish" was written by the Rev. Christian J. Thearle, pastor and Dr. Robert E. Ehlert, vice chairman of the church council. Leonard Martens, a member of the council, is preparing the script for "Our Synod," another film to be shown.

Others working on the dinner 1964 Stewardship chairman: Mrs. Thomas Gosch, hostesses: arrangements are Ed Pounds, Mrs. Elmer Graff, dinner: and James Fahrenkrug, facilities.

Reservations to date indicate that most of the congregation will attend. Members of the stewardship committee will make calls on the following Sunday on those unable to attend this Sunday's dinner.

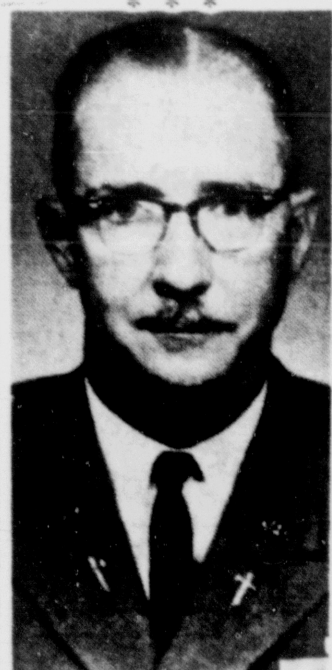

Pointing the way to the evening program, Pastor Thearle will use "The Moment of Truth" as her sermon topic during the 8:30 and 11 a.m. worship hours.

Chaplain Brown To Be Speaker At Conference

Chaplain Maj. Gen. Charles E. Brown, Jr., the Army's chief of chaplains, will attend the annual Army Air Defense Command Chaplain's Conference in Colorado Springs Tuesday and Wednesday.

Chaplain of various Army commands will join ARADCOM region chaplains for a review of religious services provided for Army air defense units across the nation, and review the general role of the Army chaplain today.

Lt. Gen. Charles B. Duff, commanding general, will welcome.

CHAP. MAJ. GEN. C.E. BROWN

come the conferees to ARADCOM Headquarters at the opening session, Tuesday. Directing the conference will be Chaplain (Col.) A. H. Marsh, command chaplain of ARADCOM.

General briefings will be given on the Army Air Defense Command, the North American Air Defense Command, and relationships with the U. S. Air Force Air Defense Command. The conference will include a tour of the NORAD Combat Operations Center and a visit to the AFA.

Chap. Brown is scheduled to address the chaplains at the first luncheon meeting. Although he has visited both ARADCOM and Ft. Carson since he was named chief of chaplains a year ago, this is his first ARADCOM Headquarters conference.

He holds a master of Theology degree from the Iliff School of Theology in Denver, and he was pastor of the Edgewater Community Methodist Church there before he was called to active Army duty in 1941.

New Church Building Will Be Dedicated at Florence

Sunday will be a big day worked to complete the construction and remodeling of the church building, helped the local congregation acquire the present building from the Mountain States Telephone & Telegraph company several months ago.

The dedication rites, which will be included in both morning and afternoon services, will feature the Rev. R. G. Fulford, district superintendent of the Rocky Mountain District Council of the Assemblies of God, who resides at Littleton, Colo.

The Rev. James Mayfield, pastor of the local church and principal builder, contractor, and architect of the new church, will speak at the 11 a.m. rites, while Reverend Fulford will bring the principal dedicational message, it was announced.

At the special dedication rites there will be a number of local ministers present for the program as well as several Assemblies ministers from Pueblo, Colorado Springs, and Canon City, it was reported.

Following the dedication service the church will launch a two-week revival meeting with Evangelist Rev. George Clarke of Greeley. The Reverend Clarke has recently returned from a tour through the Midwest, Rev. Mayfield noted.

It was explained that during the local revival, there will be special music as well as inspirational messages each night of the two-week program.

Rev. Mayfield, who has

Ministers who will be preaching at the First Methodist Church Sunday services in the absence of the vacationing Dr. and Mrs. Ben Lehmburg will be Rev. Roger Weeks, new student minister, Rev. Philip Green, minister of outreach, Rev. Don Bleye and Dr. LeRoy Arend, associate minister.

The 7:30 a.m. Come-As-You-Are service will be conducted by Rev. Weeks in Lehmburg Chapel.

Rev. Green will preach at 8:25 and 10:55 a.m. services with the services led by Rev. Bleye.

Rev. Arend will deliver the 7:30 p.m. message.

The Glee Club will return from a month vacation. Halene Phelps will furnish the 7:30 a.m. service organ music. Violinist Fritz Funk will present the offertory solo at 8:25 and 10:55 a.m. services. Chapel Choir will sing at 8:25 a.m.; Chancel Choir, 10:55 a.m. Verda Lawrie will be at the organ at 8:25 and 10:55 service times.

Holy Communion will be observed in the Lehmburg Chapel this Sunday before the 8:25 a.m. service and following the 10:55 a.m. service.

First Baptists' Loyalty Supper Features Slides

First Baptist Church is expecting a capacity attendance at a special Loyalty Supper at 6 p.m. this Sunday.

40 people will act as hosts and hostesses at the tables. Mrs. Lornie Martinez, general chairman.

The program, which is to follow the supper is under the direction of Earl Sever, chairman of the local church's Stewardship Enlistment for 1964. Several lay members will assist him.

The main feature will be a colored slide presentation, demonstrating the activities of life and work of First Baptists. Slides will show numerous people, most of whom will be in attendance at the Loyalty Supper.

At 7:30 p.m. the regular evening worship will be held. Chaplain Geoffrey Knott will be introduced as visitor and guest speaker. His sermon subject will be, "John the Baptist, a Trail Blazer."

In the morning, Rev. Ward B. Hurlburt, pastor, will preach at the 8:45 and 11 a.m. Communion services. The Chapel and Chancel Choirs will sing.

What is your life? "It is a vapor that appears for a little while and then disappears," James 4:14. It doesn't take long to burn a match, or to live a life. From twenty to seventy looks like a long road, but from seventy to twenty is a mighty short road.
A match consumes itself to serve others. Every worthwhile life is like that. One either burns out or rusts out. The worth of life is not how long it is but how well it is lived.
A good life has a vital glow . . . many little deeds made meaningful by a few great decisions. Decide now to attend church regularly. A match doesn't burn very long. Life is short.
Eternity is much longer.

Your Life-- Whose Is It?

Your life! But is it really yours? What did you do to obtain it? For how long a time do you hold a lease upon it? Where will it return eventually? Your life—yes, in trust. Your life—yes, in potential. Your life—yes, in responsibility. What are you making out of this for which you must give final report to your Maker?

Jesus said, "I am come that they may have life, and have it abundantly." Not simply existence; not just so much work, so much food, so much sleep, so much fun or so many years. He holds within Himself true life and offers it to all who will have it on the only condition which everyone can meet—Faith.

"This is the life" said one of the miners in Pennsylvania as he came out of his entombment to see the light of day and be restored to those who loved him and had been anxious over his condition. "This is the life" every person can say, who has been delivered from the entombment of self and brought out into the light of a new day under God who loves him. Let's begin to LIVE.

MY ANSWER

by Billy Graham

QUESTION: Even though I have been sorry for my sins and confessed them to God,
I can't stop worrying about them. —B. N.

ANSWER: There is a great difference between remorse and repentance. The lives of many people are filled with remorse because they know that their past actions have brought grief to others. The Bible tells us, II Corinthians 7:9, about being "made sorry." The sorrow which God uses means a change of heart that leads to salvation
—it is the world's sorrow that is such a deadly thing.

When this happens as a result of some sinful act, we are then ready to turn to Christ and accept the pardon that He offers. If you have done that and if you still continue to worry about sins, it is because you have not yet believed what the Bible says about the whole matter. The Bible clearly tells us, Romans 3:24. Philip's Translation that "a man who has faith is now freely acquitted in the eyes of God by his generous dealing in the Redemptive Act of Jesus Christ." This is what you must receive in simple faith. Only then will your worrying come to an end. Satan likes nothing better than to remind us of our past sins.

QUESTION: I don't understand: "Thou shalt not make any graven image or any likeness, etc." Will you please explain it for me? —C. G.

ANSWER: This is an excerpt from the first commandment, and in it, God is claiming priority to our deeper loyalties. Because God is love, we are not to think that God is selfishly jealous. His "jealousy" is a concern for our welfare.
His demand that "thou shalt have no other gods before me", is made because in His wisdom He knows how quickly our lives fall to pieces when we lose our love for Him.

The first commandment is a plea to put first things first — not just a meaningless exhortation for men to worship God unreasonably. It is God's desire that men live full-orbed lives. A love for God, and reverence for His law is a sure foundation for a well-ordered life. The making of graven images, and the worship of false gods are signs of spiritual deterioration. But bear in mind that "graven images" can be anything, however good, but we put above God the Creator. It can be your job, your pastime, a secret sin, or a devastating habit. When God is put in His rightful place, the rest of life falls into harmony. If he is shoved into a remote corner, life will lack luster, drive and purpose. But if He is put first, then the "all things" that Jesus promised will be given unto us.

QUESTION: I will be entering college next year and keep thinking about what I want from life. In your opinion what should a Christian want most from life? —B. D.

ANSWER: I believe that a Christian should not so much ask: "What do I want from life", as "What can I give to life". Gladstone once said: "A gentleman is not a man who tried to get all he can out of life—but one who has a deep desire to contribute to life."

Make the most of your best for the sake of others, and the glory of God. This is Christianity at its highest. I visited the Holy Land, and we saw two seas there: the sea of Galilee, and the Dead Sea. Galilee was like a precious jewel set in a mounting of golden hills. But the Dead Sea was stagnant, lifeless. What made the difference? Galilee received the Jordan river, and gave it out again. But the Dead Sea received the Jordan and kept it.
That is why it is called "The Dead."

The Christian ethic is: "Give and it shall be given . . . it is more blessed to give than to receive." Do not ask: "What do I want from life?" God so loved the world that He gave His only Son. He gave the best that He had, and He expects us, as His children, to live in the same spirit.

Vitamin A Can 'Intoxicate,' Medics Report

By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — What makes a vitamin A intoxication a horror to a physician is that its signs can be confused with those of a brain tumor. And also with those of serious meningitis, chronic encephalitis and infectious arthritis—to name a few without mentioning neurosis.

The complaining physicians were Drs. Joaquin Soler-Bechara and John L. Soscia of New York's St. Vincent's Hospital, and theirs were the latest scientific voices raised in alarm at the fabulous rate at which Americans now dose themselves with vitamins.

They had just completed a 36-day hospital dealing with a 39-year-old female secretary who for years had been dosing herself heavily with vitamin A, in addition to multiple-vitamins, in the belief it would bolster her fading energy. One sign of vitamin A intoxication is energy loss.

Damaging Reactions
Her bewildering array of major signs were fatigue, weight loss, bone and joint pains, bone tenderness, loss of body hair, itching, dry skin, enlargements of liver and spleen, anemia, headache and skin rashes.

The eventual cure turned out to be simple. She was deprived of her vitamin A.

Soler-Bechara and Soscia were so aroused they made an exhaustive study of what medical science has learned about vitamin A intoxication since the first case was reported in 1944. They reported this study to a technical publication of the American Medical Association.

There have been only a few cases of acute intoxication, in small children and in arctic explorers. The former got huge single doses of vitamin A from solicitous mothers; the explorers got their huge single doses by eating the liver of the polar bear.

Others Chronic Cases
The others were chronic cases "and these may exist for years without recognition," they said. "The present-day sales of vitamins emphasizes the awareness that must be exerted by physicians. Drugstore sales of vitamin products reached a total of $250 million in 1960."

One good indication is a feeble enlargement of liver and spleen. The human liver is known to store vitamin A but not at the rate at which the polar bear liver stores it.

"Using fluorescence microscopy, vitamin A can be visualized in tissues," they added. "A striking green fluorescence is imparted by this substance to the lipoids (fats or oils) which carry it, the degree of fluorescence depending on the amount of vitamin A present."

CENTURY-OLD OVEN
NAMUR, Wis. (AP)—A brick-lined stone oven, built 100 years ago, is still in regular use on the farm of the Harvey Jeanquarts, a Belgian family.

During the Kermis, a Belgian harvest celebration held in the fall, Mrs. Jeanquart uses it to bake 30 loaves of bread at a time and 50 or 60 pies for the fete. The oval oven, made of stones gathered from nearby fields, was constructed by Victor DuBois, original owner of the farm.

THE OCTAGON—The temporary executive mansion during the War of 1812, this fine old Georgian house was dedicated in 1961 as an official historic shrine.

Dolly Madison's Home Historic Haunted House

EDITOR'S NOTE: When it comes to ghosts, the nation's capital yields to no man in the quantity and quality of its local product. Lincoln haunts the White House, the shade of John Quincy Adams wanders around the Capitol's Rotunda, fine old houses sport at least one specter. Here's a tale of the Octagon, often called Washington's favorite haunted house.

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Men claim superiority in many areas of endeavor, but when it comes to haunting they can't hold a candle to women.

For every male ghost — who usually can think of nothing more imaginative to do than clomp up and down stairs or clank chains — there are dozens of fascinating female phantoms with spell-binding bags of tricks.

One of these alluring apparitions is wraith in residence at the Octagon historic brick house that served as a temporary Executive Mansion for President James Madison and his incomparable Dolly when the British burned the White House during the War of 1812.

The Octagon — which is really a hexagon broken by a tower in front — was built 1798-1800 by Col. John Tayloe of Mount Airy, Va., as a townhouse in the new national capital at the corner of New York Avenue and 18th Street. For years the stately Georgian home was a center of Washington's social life.

Larchmont Homes Sales Up Sharply

Larchmont Homes of Colorado Springs are now selling homes at a rate twice as fast as that of a year ago, according to A. C. Stillwell, resident manager.

Sales at this pace are somewhat counter to the trend in the area. Stillwell attributes the increased tempo of sales to the fact that more people in Colorado Springs and vicinity are becoming familiar with Larchmont Homes prior to making a purchase and more buyers are shopping harder to get their dollars worth.

Larchmont Homes offer 12 homes of various types in the middle price bracket from $14,200 to $18,100.

Larchmont Homes opened a second subdivision in Colorado Sept. 15, in Aurora.

Sales in Aurora in what other builders term a slow market have been running at one each day or three times as fast as anticipated. Stillwell is also resident manager for the Aurora operation.

Larchmont plans to offer two new homes of its line of quality homes in the immediate future.

"It is anticipated that the two additional homes to be added will again contribute heavily to a substantial increase in sales in the Colorado Springs area," Stillwell said.

WAS SHE PUSHED OR DID SHE JUMP?—Stories vary about how this lovely apparition met her end, but they all agree this is the stairway she haunts. The chandelier sways mysteriously, too.

tional Historic Landmark open to the public, and national headquarters since 1900 of The American Institute of Architects.

Mrs. Velma May, The Octagon's hostess, says she doesn't believe in the supernatural and she certainly has never seen any of the feminine ghosts whose stories have made the old mansion Washington's favorite haunted house.

"But I have seen that chandelier," she says, pointing to a big glass affair in the stairwell, "start to sway as if a hand had done it. There was no wind. It would stop after awhile."

"The former caretaker, who lived here 33 years on the top floor, said he got used to not meeting people on the stairs after he heard them coming. And he saw things."

When he opens up early in the morning, Robert Bradley, the gardener, occasionally hears, he says, "groans of distress that follows you up the stairs. Once they were so loud I thought someone was playing a trick on me. And I'm not a superstitious man."

The Octagon's most famous ghost is one of the young women of the Tayloe family. Accounts vary whether it is Betty, the colonel's niece; one of the colonel's daughters or a cousin.

What happened to her isn't clear either. You have a choice: 1. Hurrying down the magnificent stairway to meet a lover she stumbled over a black cat and fell to the marble landing, dying instantly. Shrieks, the thud of her body and the hiss of the cat can be heard during thunderstorms.

2. She threw herself down the stairwell because of thwarted love for a British officer. Her shadow may be seen reflected on the wall by the flickering light of the candle she carries up the winding stairs.

3. She eloped against her family's wishes and returned to beg forgiveness. She was met with such rage she flung herself over the balustrade of the top landing. (In one variation, her infuriated brother pushed her. In another, the terrified girl was fleeing her father's wild anger when she stepped on a kitten, fell and broke her neck.) Her unhappy spirit, swathed in white draperies, floats up and down stairs.

Legend has it that on certain days, particularly the anniversary of the tragic affair, no one may cross the hall at the foot of the stairway where the body landed without unconsciously going around an unseen object lying there.

Mrs. May, the hostess, does not believe in the supernatural.

Field tests conducted by GE in supermarkets, restaurants and department stores have shown Textolite 1000 to be answer to extreme wear problems on surfaces of check-out counters, tables, work tops and constantly abused work surfaces.

GE said tests show that Textolite 1000 will withstand twice as much wear as laminated plastics made in accordance with present industry standards. Test methods used are subscribed to by all major plastic laminate makers.

"Textolite 1000 has exceptional color stability and uniformity," Hopper said. "Its resistance to cigarette burns is better than that of standard grades while it offers the same choice of surface finishes—textured or satin."

Available in many decorator patterns, wood grains and solid colors, Textolite 1000 will cost only slightly more than general-purpose Textolite, Hopper said.

Hopper also disclosed plans to market new Perma-Kleen laminated plastic tile for commercial flooring. It also has a poly-merit surface.

"The new tile," he said, "can drastically reduce floor maintenance costs. Its first important use is for elevated flooring in data processing rooms."

The Octagon's most famous ghost is one of the young women of the Tayloe family. Accounts vary whether it is Betty, the colonel's niece; one of the colonel's daughters or a cousin.

What happened to her isn't clear either. You have a choice:

1. Hurrying down the magnificent stairway to meet a lover she stumbled over a black cat and fell to the marble landing, dying instantly. Shrieks, the thud of her body and the hiss of the cat can be heard during thunderstorms.

2. She threw herself down the stairwell because of thwarted love for a British officer. Her shadow may be seen reflected on the wall by the flickering light of the candle she carries up the winding stairs.

3. She eloped against her family's wishes and returned to beg forgiveness. She was met with such rage she flung herself over the balustrade of the top landing. (In one variation, her infuriated brother pushed her. In another, the terrified girl was fleeing her father's wild anger when she stepped on a kitten, fell and broke her neck.) Her unhappy spirit, swathed in white draperies, floats up and down stairs.

Legend has it that on certain days, particularly the anniversary of the tragic affair, no one may cross the hall at the foot of the stairway where the body landed without unconsciously going around an unseen object lying there.

Mrs. May, the hostess, does not believe in the supernatural.

Field tests conducted by GE in supermarkets, restaurants and department stores have shown Textolite 1000 to be answer to extreme wear problems on surfaces of check-out counters, tables, work tops and constantly abused work surfaces.

GE said tests show that Textolite 1000 will withstand twice as much wear as laminated plastics made in accordance with present industry standards. Test methods used are subscribed to by all major plastic laminate makers.

"Textolite 1000 has exceptional color stability and uniformity," Hopper said. "Its resistance to cigarette burns is better than that of standard grades while it offers the same choice of surface finishes—textured or satin."

Available in many decorator patterns, wood grains and solid colors, Textolite 1000 will cost only slightly more than general-purpose Textolite, Hopper said.

Hopper also disclosed plans to market new Perma-Kleen laminated plastic tile for commercial flooring. It also has a poly-merit surface.

"The new tile," he said, "can drastically reduce floor maintenance costs. Its first important use is for elevated flooring in data processing rooms."

You Can Revamp Bathroom With Fitting at Time

If the bathtub, lavatory and water closet are still in style, you can change a middle aged bathroom into a lively colorful one.

New fittings and accessories easily add sparkle to an older bathroom, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau. And costs can be controlled by making changes gradually.

Replacing an old shower curtain with a smartly styled tub enclosure of tempered glass or plastic can dramatically alter the looks of the bath. Frosted glass enclosures (some have frosted designs) permit privacy, and plastic ones come in colors. They are easy to clean, eliminate curtain odors, and put an end to puddles outside the tub.

Adding a new medicine cabinet with large mirrors can add a new feeling of spaciousness to the bath. Modern cabinets are made of steel, enameled inside, chromium-plated outside. Many of the good ones have integral lights, some have adjustable mirrors, others have locking compartments for storing medicines and toxic materials.

You can revamp the shower in two ways. Have your plumbing contractor replace an old-fashioned shower head with an adjustable one that gives a thorough, even spray and is draining for cleanliness. Then have him add a thermostatically controlled shower mixing valve that makes it simple to control water temperature and volume. It also compensates for changes in water pressure preventing sudden flows of hot or cold water.

Other changes you might consider include adding faucets of polished or brushed chrome, lacquered brass, or even gold plate; L-shaped grab bars for tub and shower safety; towel bars and rings; soap, tissue, tumbler and tooth brush holders; and a new toilet seat in color.

There's even a story that Dolly Madison herself holds phantom court at The Octagon. She was Washington society's most sparkling hostess, and surely she left her imprint on the house where she lived and entertained for more than a year.

In the back garden she reportedly kept a late tryst with Aaron Burr, who climbed the 10-foot wall to bid her farewell before leaving for Europe to escape his political enemies. She always had a weakness for the dashing Burr, once her suitor, who she sensibly had married the more solid — and stolid — Madison.

Some romantics say even the Burr spirit frequents The Octagon, but nobody presses the point.

Modern thermostats are fine precision instruments, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, and may need adjustment from time to time, as do all fine mechanisms.

If, during recent chilly nights, you feel that your heating system has failed to respond properly, it's a good idea to have your heating contractor check the thermostat while adjusting your heating system.

HOME OFFICE—Adequate home office space is a must for the modern household. File storage for important records and documents, plus space for home bookkeeping, other paperwork is provided by this built-in desk unit designed in west coast hemlock. Inviting alcove off living room also doubles as adults' den.

Be 'Stickler' For Perfection With Adhesive

The home handyman who hasn't learned to use adhesives is severely limited in his ability to repair things around the house.

When an adhesive fails in its job it generally does so for one of three reasons: the wrong adhesive for the job, not following instructions or not allowing enough time for the adhesive to set.

Biggest problem by far is to pick the right adhesive for the materials you wish to join. There are many "all-purpose" adhesives on the market. Some come close to being that, but it's better if you pick an adhesive designed for use with a particular material.

Choice also depends on how strong the joint will have to be and if it will be subject to heat or moisture.

Read the label carefully before you buy. On a good adhesive, the label will tell you what it contains, what materials it can be used on and methods of application and length of drying time.

Paste is the adhesive most people meet first, generally at a tender age. It dries slowly, has little heat resistance and should be used for paper only. Mucilage is another natural resin, is good for paper and other lightweight porous materials as well. It has a little more heat resistance than paste.

Animal and fish glue is available as both liquid or in dry form which you mix. The liquid is generally preferred. This is used primarily for wood, also for paper, leather and fabrics. Should be used where joints will not be under great strain.

When using this sort of glue remember to clamp the materials and allow plenty of drying time. Do not use where moisture is present.

Casein glue is a stronger glue for wood, is suitable for heavier fabrics, dries more quickly than animal glue and has better resistance to heat and wood.

Synthetic thermo-setting resins (generally carry the term resin on the label) are durable, good for wood and for bonding materials to wood such as plastic laminates.

Thermo-plastic resins on the other hand are the ones generally referred to as cements and can be used on china, glass, wood, paper, leather and some clear plastics.

Rubber cement can be used to cement rubber to metal, plastic or rubber. Some types are available for paper, can be rubbed off after drying in case of excess.

Epoxy resins are among the newest, most effective and trickiest to use. They can be used for like or unlike materials. They come in two parts—a resin and an activator. When mixed they begin to set and you must work quickly. Follow instructions exactly for an extremely strong bond.

Insulation Takes No Maintenance

Mineral wool insulation is one home building product that requires no maintenance. Since it is made from rock, glass or slag, it is permanently fire and vermin-proof. It can be installed by a home owner or by a contractor.

Administrative Office Space Is 'Must' in Today's Home

It takes good management to run a business efficiently and economically and it takes good management to run a home.

For that reason, most families today have put their homes on a really businesslike basis and have allotted some special area of the home to administrative office space. This area usually is designed to provide storage space for important family documents—from bank statements to vaccination records—and includes a writing counter of ample size where papers and telephone may be spread out comfortably for work.

The home office can be located in any area of the house. Sometimes it's easiest to put it in the kitchen, designed in conjunction with the planning center. Sometimes the dining room offers convenient space. The master bedroom is another good bet, especially in a home where tiny children might get into important papers in a more accessible area like the kitchen.

Another good idea is to build the home office into an alcove adjacent to the living room. There it is well located for parents' use and school age children can take advantage of the writing counter for studies.

To be really functional, it's wise to design the office as a single, good-size desk unit which includes file drawers and shelved cabinets under the desk top, as well as stationery drawers. A unit like this is easier to build in than to buy since it can then be tailored to fit available space and to lie under windows or turn a corner. Building it in also makes it an architectural feature providing more de-

Leak in Pipe Calls for Fast Action, Not Panic

A leaky water pipe means time for fast action, but not panic.

First thing to do is to turn off the water. There may be a valve for that line alone. If not, turn off the main water supply.

With the pressure off, you have time for an emergency repair.

Best method, one that will last indefinitely, is the use of a special pipe clamp made for just this purpose. The pipe clamp consists of two metal halves that fit around the pipe. The inside of the metal is lined with rubber. Nuts and bolts draw the clamp tight once it is in place.

If you don't have a pipe clamp on hand and the time is not appropriate to run to the hardware store for one (these things always happen at night or on Sundays and holidays), then look around the house for materials with which you can improvise.

An old piece of garden hose is an excellent substitute. Split it and place it around the pipe. These can be held in place with a hose clamp. You may need the size used for radiator hose. If you lack a clamp use wire twisted tightly around the patch.

A generous use of friction tape is another method. But since the tape is porous, use some other patching material with it. A piece of rubber cut from an old inner tube or other rubber item is best used by placing it directly over the break. Then wind tape or string around this patch very tightly. Wrap plenty of tape around the area.

Lacking a piece of rubber, just use plenty of tape in many layers going in both directions.

Remember, that the sort of patch may not be completely waterproof, it will stop the spray until you can make a permanent repair.

A leak that occurs near a joint may indicate that the joint needs repair. Threaded fittings must be taken apart and coated with pipe compound before being put back together. A soldered joint will have to be taken apart and cleaned of all the old solder.

A bad spot in a run of copper pipe is cut out and rejoined with a copper sleeve that fits over both ends.

If the pipe in your house is steel or galvanized iron, cutting out the bad part and joining the parts together will require threading the ends and joining them with a union. If you can remove both pieces of pipe you can take it to a hardware store to be threaded.

Unless you're an expert, it's best to call in a plumber to make those permanent repairs.

Cambodia will buy cows.

QUESTION: The paint on some parts of the outside of our house has started to blister. We had a paint job done a little over a year ago. We keep everything in good condition. The house is insulated, weather-stripped, etc. Can you tell us what is causing this blistering?

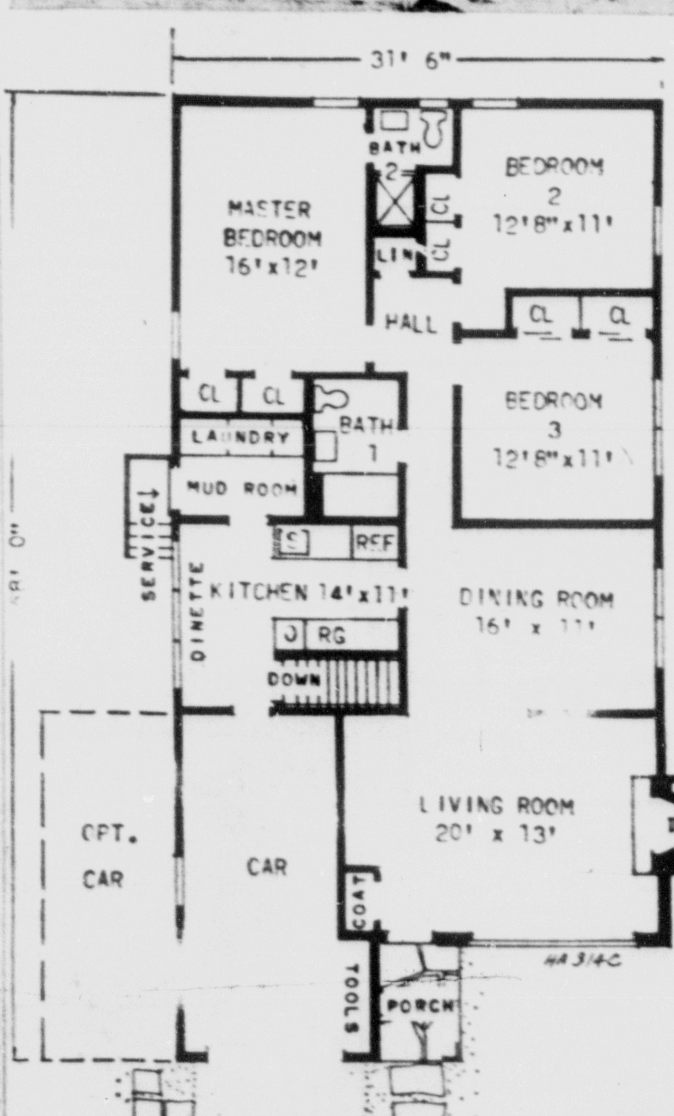

ANSWER: Exterior paint blistering usually results from excessive moisture within the house which can not escape thru the walls, condensing into water as it hits the cooler inside surface of the siding and then pushing thru the outer paint coating.

It rarely happens years ago when houses were not of such tight construction. The moisture then could escape easily without forcing its way thru the walls. However, the same openings that permitted the moisture to leave also afforded passageways for heat, causing fuel bills to mount and making houses much harder to keep comfortable.

Another modern-day factor in this entire picture is the moisture-exuding appliance, of which there are many. Exhaust fans, especially in the kitchen and bathroom and wherever the clothes dryer is located, often solve the problem. More severe conditions call for other measures, among them the installation of breather tubes just above the foundation.

Boys School Asks Larger Budget For Fiscal Year

GOLDEN (UPI) — Director Malcolm Geddis of the Look-out Mountain State School for Boys told the Joint Budget Committee of the Colorado Legislature Friday the school would need $121,409 more for operating expenses during the next fiscal year.

Geddis requested a budget of $1,074,078 for the fiscal year which begins next July 1, compared with $952,122 for the current year.

Geddis said most of the increase, or $90,129, was planned for personnel services and salary increases. Of that figure, $27,545 would go for regular merit increases.

He also asked for eight new positions with an annual cost of $35,076, seven of them counseling positions. The eighth new employee would be a physical education teacher.

Geddis said the population on the boys school rolls had increased alarmingly in the last year to an all-time high of 429 last month, and currently was at 387.

He said the school was so understaffed it could not open a recently remodeled unit for lack of personnel to run it.

The budget committee spent the entire last day of a swing around the state at the school after earlier cancelling a visit also planned Friday at the Colorado School of Mines at Golden. Mines officials said they did not know when the committee would meet on their budget request.

HOW TO UNSEAL LETTER

If you seal a letter and then remember you forgot to put something in it, take the point of a pencil or the covered end of an eyebrow pencil and insert it at one end of the flap. Rotate the pencil gently under the full length of the flap. Usually you will have an unmarred envelope with enough glue left to reseal it.

Increase in Sales Revenues Reported

DENVER (AP) — A substantial increase in withholding and an increase of nearly 10 per cent in sales taxes for the first quarter of the current fiscal year was reported today by State Revenue Director Hugh Weed Jr.

Weed reported that sales tax collections during the first quarter ending Sept. 30 totaled $14,569,013, compared with $13,840,018, compared with $10,800,000 of last year.

Withholding tax returns for the first quarter were $11,644,018, compared with $10,800,000 of last year.

He said that either more people were employed or employers were paying higher wages — or a combination of both.

Convict Fails To Get Request

DENVER (AP) — Carl Robert Oaks, convicted murderer, was turned down Friday on his request for a free transcript of his trial.

Oaks, an Albuquerque laborer, claimed he did not have enough money to buy the document, needed so he can file a writ of error on his Dec. 8, 1962, conviction. He is serving a life term in the Colorado State Penitentiary.

U.S. Dist. Judge William E. Doyle denied the petition. Oaks was convicted of the 1959 shotgun slaying of Thaddeus Straub during an attempted robbery here.

Halleck Irked GOP by Helping With Rights Bill

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Minority leader Charles A. Halleck's role in helping draft a compromise civil rights bill has aroused resentment among a sizable group of House Republicans.

The dissatisfaction not only throws into doubt the kind of support the Republicans will give the bill, it might threaten Halleck's job as House GOP leader unless steps are taken to counter the resentment.

A group of 69 members, 40 per cent of the GOP membership, attended a hastily called meeting Thursday that bore all the signs of a brewing revolt on the part of conservatives.

The meeting wasn't planned until Wednesday night and of 70 invited, all but one reportedly showed up at 9 a.m. Thursday at a hotel near the Capitol.

One of the organizers, who asked not be named, said another meeting is being planned for the near future.

Another participant said the meeting was designed to "open lines of communication" between Halleck and the rank and file party members, and it is certain Halleck got the message.

When the Indianan was installed as GOP leader in a sudden coup against Rep. Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts five years ago, the complaint was the same that communications had broken down between the former party leader and the troops.

At that time, Martin was not only party leader but chairman of the policy committee that supposedly set the GOP position on pending legislation. When Halleck took over, the two jobs were split. The leader has been specifically charged with getting policy committee clearance before committing the party to anything.

The chief complaint now is that Halleck not only endorsed a civil rights bill that goes further than many Republicans like, but that he did it without consulting the policy committee.

Williams says Mines officials have projected an enrollment of 2,500 for the school, but so far it hasn't increased.

"What they're proposing," Williams says, "is a revision of their long rate plan—not only for property acquisition, but construction of new buildings."

"We told them the plan for acquisition of land and buildings is a reasonable plan if Mines is going to grow to the enrollment they've projected. But it's going to be awful hard to get money now to do something way in the future."

Williams was referring apparently to the fact that there will probably be little money next year for capital construction because of a tight state budget.

"Childs wants to make Mines a splendid technical college," Williams says, "but the planning commission is not convinced yet that there's a need as urgent as the needs at some of the other campuses all competing for limited funds."

Childs said that it was true that the school has plans for the $2 million engineering complex and that certain parcels of land are under consideration for purchase. But he refused to say anything more about the plans.

"Building a couple of buildings is only part of a great dream," he said, indicating that there is considerably more to the Mines program than just the engineering complex.

He called any release of figures or building plans premature. He added that he would say nothing about the program until it is presented to the legislature's Joint Budget Committee and the advisory committee of the State Planning Division.

Childs said that a recent meeting with Williams and his aides was "informal." There was nothing formal written to him or presented to him that even approximates this sort of thing," Childs said of Williams' statements.

He said the meeting was "for the purpose of all of us getting together and trying to bring into focus the long range plan of the campus."

He hinted that there may have been some confusion and that Williams might even have been thinking of a different set of plans.

Williams calls the development plans which reportedly consist of somewhat more than the engineering complex — "an ambitious program."

But Williams says there's some doubt in his mind whether the state could justify expanding the campus. Mines enrollment has remained steady at about 1,100 for the past five or six years, he says. And he adds that the school "has more space per student than any other state school."

School of Mines, State Headed for Squabble

DENVER (AP) — A squabble over development programs at Colorado School of Mines appears to be shaping up between school officials and the state planning director, Williams.

Williams says he's discussed with Mines President Orlo E. Childs a school proposal for a $2 million engineering complex and the purchase of about 10 acres of developed residential property adjacent to the campus at Golden.

Williams says that Childs wants to construct the engineering center in several phases over the next five years. Included would be facilities for geophysics and mathematics. The complex would be constructed on the eastern section of the campus.

The first phase of the program would begin next year with initial planning at an estimated cost of $166,000. Of this, $120,000 would be for land acquisition, $10,000 to tear down the old engineering building and $36,000 for architects' payments.

The new engineering building would start with a first unit to cost $1,106,000. The second unit would cost $983,000.

Williams calls the development plans which reportedly consist of somewhat more than the engineering complex — "an ambitious program."

But Williams says there's some doubt in his mind whether the state could justify expanding the campus. Mines enrollment has remained steady at about 1,100 for the past five or six years, he says. And he adds that the school "has more space per student than any other state school."

Illinois Holds Sherbondy for Robbery Charge

WOODSTOCK, Ill. (AP) — Thompson, 40, and Kurth Kelm, 38, were arrested Oct. 21 with an arsenal and nearly $5,000 in cash were ordered held to the grand jury today on robbery charges.

Justice of the Peace Joseph Ritter set bond of $35,000 each for James Sherbondy, 43; Arlen Northwest Tollway.

At Huntley, in southern McHenry County, their car was curbed. In it police found a shotgun, four revolvers, four home-made bombs and the cash.

Police said the men had robbed a Crystal Lake supermarket of $7,000 just before their arrest.

Sherbondy, of Minton, Colo., was paroled in December from the Colorado State Penitentiary after serving 25 years for murder. Kelm, of Canon City, was paroled two years ago after serving a term for robbery.

The FBI said the telephone tip it received was from Thompson, of Denver. They said he told the FBI two gunmen were abducting him and he feared for his life.

Commissioners met with a delegation from Weld County led by Millard H. Ewing, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners. Ewing said that increased county expenditures were the principal reasons for the higher budget and correspondingly higher mill levies.

The increases will bring the present county mill levy of 23.13 mills to 25.08. Increases include 1.3 mills for the general fund, .75 mills for public welfare, .25 for public works, .25 for hospital public works and .15 for the public school fund. A 2 mill levy for bond redemption remained the same, and there will be a .75 mill reduction in funds for roads and bridges.

The total 1964 Weld County budget will be $4,092,502.98, compared with $3,608,593.87 for 1963.

Permission of the State Tax Commission is necessary for a county budget increase of 5 per cent or more and corresponding mill levy increases.

SHELTER TRAINING UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Pennsylvania State University will offer a 30-hour course in 15 state communities to train instructors, who will in turn train persons selected to serve as fallout shelter managers in the event of a nuclear attack.

Specific objectives of the program are to develop insight into the leadership and management challenges in a shelter environment, to develop the ability to plan and organize the shelter operation for an extended period of time, and to administer shelter operations for community living.

Cardinal-Giant Game Tops NFL Billing

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Are the St. Louis Cardinals for real? Now comes the real test two games with the New York Giants and two with Cleveland among the seven remaining for the Cards.

The first big one is Sunday at St. Louis with the Giants. The two teams are tied for second in the Eastern Conference of the National Football League, one game behind Cleveland. If the Browns should falter at Philadelphia Sunday, the winner of the Card-Giant game would go into a first-place tie.

Pittsburgh, still nursing pennant hopes in the East, 1½ games behind the Browns, enters a make-or-break period Sunday against Green Bay at Milwaukee. The following week Buddy Parker's Steelers play Cleveland.

In contrast to the wide open Eastern race, the Western Conference has narrowed down to a two-team scrap between the Packers and the Chicago Bears. They don't meet again until Nov. 17. However, the Packers may have their hands full with the Steelers and the Bears may run into a buzzsaw in Baltimore in two vital Sunday games.

Other NFL action Sunday finds Detroit at San Francisco, Washington at Dallas and Los Angeles at Minnesota. The favorites are New York, Cleveland, Green Bay, Chicago, Detroit, Dallas and Minnesota.

The American Football League action opened with the Friday night game at Boston between the Patriots and Houston. San Diego's powerful Western Division leaders play the New York Jets Saturday night at the Polo Grounds. The Sunday AFL schedule has Kansas City at Oakland and Buffalo at Denver.

USC-Washington Game Key to Rose Bowl Bid

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Its November and already football fans are sniffing for faint scents of roses, orange blossoms, sugar cane and cotton bolls as they head for Saturday's big college games.

It still is too early to decide who will play where on New Year's Day, but the clash between Southern California and Washington at Seattle seems sure to produce the No. 1 Big Six candidate for a Rose Bowl berth, and if mighty Texas still is undefeated after meeting Southern Methodist, the Longhorns can think positively about the Cotton Bowl.

Elsewhere a half dozen or more games can have bearings on major conference races that usually end in bowl invitations. That is, any of the top teams that is beaten likely will be eliminated.

Southern Cal, last year's national champion and Rose Bowl winner, has bounced back strongly from defeats by Oklahoma and Notre Dame and is favored over a Washington team that lost three games to teams from other sections then won three in home territory.

For the winner, no serious difficulties are anticipated the rest of the season.

Texas, after close calls in the last two of its six straight victories, isn't overconfident as it goes against Southern Methodist in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas. SMU has lost two South-west Conference games but has beaten such strong teams as Navy, ranked fourth nationally, and Air Force. If the Longhorns falter, there's Baylor, tied for the lead and favored to beat Texas Christian Saturday.

In the Big Ten, which provides the other Rose Bowl team, Illinois, Ohio State and Michigan State are tied with 2-1 conference records. Michigan State appears to have Saturday's toughest assignment against defending champion Wisconsin. Illinois plays Purdue and Ohio State meets Iowa.

In the Southeastern Conference, which traditionally supplies a team for the Sugar Bowl and usually a few other postseason attractions, Louisiana State and Mississippi meet at Baton Rouge, La., in a head-on clash between two of the leaders. A third, Auburn, tackles a fairly strong Florida team.

Bronco Flanker Scarpitto Marked Man Against Bills

DENVER (AP) — Quarterbacks come and go on the Denver Broncos but it doesn't matter much to flanker back Bob Scarpitto who latches on to throws from any of them.

The former Notre Dame ace has caught 17 passes, including four touchdown pitches, in the Broncos' last three games for a flossy 23.6 yard average per catch.

At various times in those three games Denver's thrower has been Mickey Slaughter, McCormick or Don Breaux.

That's why Scarpitto will be a marked man when the Broncos entertain Buffalo in an American Football League game Sunday. The kickoff is at 1:30 p.m.

Three of Scarpitto's four touchdowns have been the bomb type—long gainers of 66, 55 and 40 yards.

Slaughter pitched three of the touchdown strikes to Scarpitto and Breaux the other. Breaux, after less than a week with the Broncos, took over when Slaughter was injured in the Denver game at Boston.

Slaughter, rookie from Louisiana Tech, is scheduled to start against Buffalo.

Kelso Pulled Out of Man O'War Stakes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

As soon as Kelso was declared gross value of $115,700, with Saturday's rich Man O'War Stakes at Aqueduct became anybody's race in the eyes of most handicappers. That opinion was reflected when 13 were entered for the 1½-mile race on the turf Nov. 11, was listed at the top of a field of 10 for Saturday's $59,800 Trenton Handicap at Garden State Park.

The Man O'War is a weight-for-age affair and as a result the selectors gave Greenlee's 5-year-old, The Axe 2nd, only a slight edge over Capt. Harry F. Guggenheim's Never Bend, the 2-year-old champion last year. The Axe, carrying 126 pounds, is listed at 2-1 and Never Bend, at 122, at 3-1. John L. Rotz will ride The Axe and Manuel Yacaza will be aboard Never Bend.

Best of the rest of the field are David K., to be ridden by Howard Grant, and Bronze Babou, with Larry Adamsup.

The Trenton Handicap brings back Mongo, the winner last year, and two former winners of the Garden State, Carry Back, 1960, and Crimson Satan, 1961. Carry Back was second to Mongo in last year's Trenton after a bitter duel.

Mongo, with 124 pounds, gives five pounds to Carry Back and two to Crimson Satan. The field also includes Saidam, winner of the Quaker State at the same track, Admiral's Voyage and Donut King.

Mrs. Choate Forces USGA Playoff

DELRAY BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Mrs. Allison Choate of Rye, N.Y., dropped a 22-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole Friday to tie the defending champ Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N.J., and throw the USGA Senior Women's Amateur Golf Tournament into a playoff.

Both women finished with 54-hole scores of 239 and will clash in an 18-hole playoff for the title Saturday.

Miss Orcutt had a 38-40-78 Friday and Mrs. Choate a 40-38-78 after they tied for the second round lead at the end of Thursday's play.

German Air Force Chief Visits Here

German Air Force Brig. Gen. R. Heuser, chief of the air defense staff, allied forced Central Europe arrived here Friday morning at 9:00 a.m.

Accompanied by U. S. Army Lt. Col. M. A. Rogers who is escorting him during his tour of U. S. Department of Defense installations, Gen. Heuser traveled to Colorado Springs from El Paso, Texas.

After a weekend in Colorado Springs the German official will tour the North American Air Defense Command headquarters and the Air Force Academy prior to his departure for the New York Air Defense Sector at McGuire Air Force Base, New Jersey.

On Tuesday morning Gen. Heuser will meet with the staff of NORAD Commander in Chief Gen. John K. Gerhart. He will tour the Combat Operations Center and watch the Canadian-United States air defense team at work.

Tuesday afternoon he will visit the Air Force Academy where he will have lunch, confer with members of the staff and meet a number of the cadets.

Soldier on Way Home in Record Time by Air

A Ft. Carson soldier was airborne en route home 35 minutes after learning that his father was seriously ill this week.

The bad news came to Pvt. Robert P. Stutz, member of the 1st Battalion, 61st Infantry, whose home is Shamokin, Pennsylvania.

His company commander, Capt. Thomas J. Fowles, arranged for a Red Cross loan and reserved a seat on a commercial plane at Peterson Field.

First Brigade Headquarters had a helicopter pick Stutz up at the brigade area and fly him to Peterson where he boarded the plane with only minutes to spare.

State Representative Asks Modern Legislatures

State Rep. John Mackie of Colorado called on delegates to the Western Conference of the Council of State Governments Thursday to modernize their legislatures and to "quit going to Washington and asking them to do things for us."

Mackie said state and local legislative processes are "being eroded" and to stop this erosion the processes must be strengthened.

The Council concluded its 1963 meeting Thursday in Albuquerque, N. M., by naming Cheyenne, Wyo., as the site of next year's meeting and State Sen. Anthony Yturri of Oregon next year's president.

No definite date was set for the Cheyenne meeting, but it will be held sometime in November after the General Election, delegates agreed.

Yturri, who was unable to attend the conference, succeeded former Colorado Sen. Charles E. Bennett as president. The conference commended Bennett and formally invited him to attend future meetings.

Two Cars Damaged In Mishap Friday

Damage totaled $800 to two cars involved in an accident Friday on S. Nevada Avenue near the South Gate Road.

State Patrolman Jake McDaniel said drivers of the cars involved, Thomas Smith, 52, St. Joseph, Mo., and Perry Freeman, 36, Yoder, were not injured.

He said the Smith car stopped for a red light on S. Nevada Avenue and the Freeman car rammed into it.

Freak Accident Damages Car Here

Damage was estimated at $500 to a car which was damaged in a freak accident at 11 a.m. Friday.

State Patrolman Jake McDaniel said that the car, owned by Arnold Scheenfeldt, 63, 1401 Avenue A, broke loose from its parking place and rolled down a hill for some 75 feet before striking a utility pole.

345 Graduate Combat Ready At Post Friday

The first 345 of 4,000 advanced individual trainees joining the 5th Infantry Division soon as replacements were graduated Friday in the 1st Battalion, 10th Infantry, at Ft. Carson.

The new Red Devils will move into basic unit training Monday after a brief weekend break.

After Friday's ceremony they were recognized as combat-ready infantrymen who received their blue cords in the graduation ceremony from Lt. Col. S. A. Day, battalion commander.

Brig. Gen. J. R. Russ, assistant division commander, emphasized the importance of the new soldiers to the division. He told the graduates that "I have been extremely pleased with the efforts you have given to complete this training and feel confident that all of you will contribute immeasurably to the future success of the division."

"Today you will receive the blue cord of an infantryman. We are all proud to wear this symbol of leadership and courage," the general said.

Gen. Russ presented awards to outstanding battalion and company advanced infantry trainees. Pvt. Eugene M. Sasaki, Company B, rated battalion honors.

Col. Day then proclaimed the 345 men as full-fledged members of the battalion and division and authorized them to wear the infantry blue cords on their right shoulders.

The cord indicates that the wearer has learned the skills of modern combat and has endured privation and hardship to become proficient.

A battalion open house with refreshments concluded the celebration.

Battalion Will Start Guerrilla Training Monday

The 2nd Battalion, 61st Infantry, 400 strong from Ft. Carson, this week began intensive training in guerrilla warfare; in essence a six week modified Special Forces training.

A first within the 5th Infantry Division, because of the large number involved, this training will take the 61st to the rugged San Isabel National Forest, south of Canon City, Monday to develop physically toughened, self-reliant individuals and units capable of sustained and independent maneuvers against an elusive foe.

The troops will receive intensive instruction in such mountain topics as the suspension traverse, mountain walking, balance climbing and cliff evacuation in the first two weeks.

The second two weeks will consist of small-unit tactics and techniques of counter-guerrilla operations. Emphasis will be placed on ambushes, counter-ambushes, patrolling, cross-country mobility by day and night, and orientations on social and environmental aspects of typical areas of guerrilla operations.

The final phase, a two-week field exercise, will pit an augmented battalion organized and operated as a semi-independent counter-guerrilla force against a company-size unit specially equipped and trained for guerrilla-type warfare.

Capt. Richard A. Dow, 2nd of the 61st training and operations officer pointed out that, "Because of terrain and training objectives, this will be unlike any exercise ever run in the division. Use of vehicles, for example, is out of the question, for the guerrilla hunt will range over craggy peaks at elevations up to 9,600 feet."

$75,000 Damage Suit Filed in District Court

A $75,000 damage suit was filed in District Court Friday by Donald L. and Patricia L. Watts against William O. and Ruth M. Lockmiller.

The plaintiffs charge that on Oct. 9, their 8-year old son, Michael Lee Watts, was playing in his yard at 2803 E. Bijou St., and the Lockmillers' son, Larry Allan Lockmiller, 10, was operating a power lawnmower on adjoining property.

The complaint alleges that the Lockmiller boy carelessly and negligently operated the lawnmower, resulting in its hurling a wire or metal object which hit Michael Lee Watts, causing him to be permanently injured. The plaintiffs also charge that the Lockmillers negligently permitted their son to operate the lawnmower, resulting in the injury.

A total of $75,000 in damages is being asked by the plaintiffs.

Three Found Guilty in Justice Court

Three persons were found guilty of violating state speed laws by Justice of the Peace H. C. McShane Friday. They were:

Perry Ellis, Jr., of Ft. Carson, who was fined $30 and $4 court costs for speeding 90-miles per hour in a 60-m.p.h. zone.

State Patrolman J. Fred Henderson ticketed Ellis Monday four miles south of Colorado Springs on Colorado 115.

Patricia Ann Olson, 24, 2631 Grand Ave., Pueblo, who was fined $15 and $4 costs for speeding 75-miles per hour in a 60-m.p.h. zone.

She was cited by Patrolman Robert A. Wheeler Sept. 25 on U. S. Highway 85-87 near the Monument bypass.

Raymond P. Haley, 16, 1901 Ouray Ave., fined $10 and $4 for speeding 45-miles per hour in a 35-m.p.h. posted zone.

Haley was ticketed Oct. 19 on Colorado 115 by Patrolman P. H. Cornell.

Fined $20 and $4 costs for speeding and one other offense was Roy Henderson, 23, Ft. Carson.

He was cited Thursday by Patrolman J. D. Morrissey on Colorado 115, seven miles south of Colorado Springs for speeding 75-miles per hour in a 60-m.p.h. zone, and for driving his vehicle on the wrong side of the road.

Gary L. Woolsey, 22, 725 E. Espanola St., was found guilty by Judge McShane on three counts; namely, having no registration card, presenting a false inspection certificate, and having no inspection certificate.

Woolsey was ticketed Oct. 24 by Police Officers J. E. Scott and R. E. Hapke on East Cucharas Street.

Fine was assessed at $20 and $4 costs, with $5 of the fine suspended.

David Hatch, 24, 2102 W. Cucharas St., was fined $15 and $4 costs for following another vehicle too closely.

He was cited Wednesday by Police Cpl. Emmett J. Butler on West Pikes Peak Avenue.

Stewart E. Turner, 26, Holly Hall, Broadmoor, was fined $10 and $4 costs for driving a vehicle the wrong way on a one-way road, and having no registration card in his vehicle.

Patrolman B. H. DeFelice ticketed him Oct. 22 at the city limits.

James D. Savageau, 19, 420 E. Cache La Poudre St., was fined $6 and $4 costs for per-

Special 'Mule Meal' Menu At Academy

Air Force Academy personnel reporting for supper at the Airman's Dining Hall Thursday night found a menu to end all menus awaiting their consideration.

Prompted more by enthusiasm for an Academy victory over Army in Saturday's meeting between the two arch rivals than dietary regulations, the bill of fare leaned heavily on anti-Army items.

Included on the beat Army menu were such delicacies as: Point soup; mule steak, ground pounder peas, brass rings, mule chips, black knight salad, hard tack, Hudson mud, and cadet pastry.

Academy airmen hope their mule meal will help the Falcon football warriors dine heartily on the Black Knights Saturday in Chicago's Soldier Field.

Driver Fined On Two Counts

Edward D. Fierce, 21, of Ft. Carson, was found guilty Friday of two traffic violations by Justice of the Peace James F. Quine, Jr.

According to State Patrolman Arnold C. Ferrero, who ticketed Fierce Oct. 19 on U. S. Highway 24, he was driving a vehicle on the wrong side of the road, and also driving the vehicle without a valid driver's license.

Judge Quine assessed a fine of $5 on each count, plus $4 court costs.

Virgil L. Hankins, 24, Ft. Carson, was fined $5 and $4 costs for misuse of dealer's plates.

He was cited Monday by State Patrolman J. Fred Henderson on Las Vegas Street.

Donald R. Mapes, 17, 908 E. 2nd St., was fined $5 and $4 costs for failing to yield the right of way to a bicycle rider.

Patrolman B. H. DeFelice ticketed Mapes Oct. 12 at Fillmore Street and Nevada Avenue.

Two persons were found guilty of careless driving by Judge Quine Friday. They were:

Ernest C. Oldervick, 57, 3120 Virginia Ave., who was cited by Patrolman Arnold C. Ferrero Tuesday on Cheyenne Boulevard.

Richard L. Rogers, 23, Ft. Carson, who was ticketed Oct. 12 on U. S. Highway 85-87 by Patrolman Lloyd M. Carothers. Oldervick and Rogers were each fined $5 and $4 costs.

Seattle Man Fined $100 In City Court

A Seattle, Wash. man was found guilty Friday in Municipal court of a vagrancy charge and fined $100 by Judge Allen Asher.

Franklin Lemons, 30, told the court that he was a victim of circumstance. He said he was picked up by police while taking a short-cut back to his car Wednesday which had become overheated.

The defendant said he was a salesman for the "Mohammed Speaks" newspaper and was looking for a victory in Saturday's Colorado Springs when he developed car trouble.

He said he left his wife in the car while he went to look for a phone. Unsuccessful in his search, he tried to return to the car by a "short cut."

Testimony by a city policeman revealed that the man was discovered in an alley behind Cucharas Street. An officer testified that he and a companion saw the defendant emerge from between two parked cars in the alley.

He said that they shined a spotlight on the man and ordered him to stop. The man ran then and the officers radioed for help.

A resident of the area, later, noticed one of the policemen and said that a man had been "scratching" at his screen. The policeman testified. The resident said he saw the man run across the street and lie down in a ditch.

Police found Lemons in the ditch and arrested him on a charge of vagrancy.

Lemons told Judge Asher that he could not produce his wife to corroborate his story since she was "in Denver. I think."

He said that he was not a vagrant. He maintained his job was selling the newspaper to Negroes. The paper is put out by the Black Muslim, a "black supremacy group."

In other action, Judge Asher fined a Ft. Carson soldier $25 and sentenced him to 10 days in city jail on a drunk charge. Richard Rider, 23, entered a guilty plea to the charge.

Two 19-year old youths, Henry Armijo, 110 S. Conejos St., and Gaspar Barela, 814 S. Wabash Ave., entered guilty-pleas to charges of riotous conduct and breach of peace.

Judge Asher found the youths guilty of breach of peace and fined each $25.

The youths told the court that they attacked a man after he objected to their using the same rest room he did.

"He didn't like Mexicans," Barela told the judge.

Edward Bowyer, 26, Ft. Carson was found guilty of a careless driving charge and fined $10.

Charges of disorderly conduct, breach of peace and riotous conduct against Gary Gross, 2616 W. Colorado Ave., as were charges of riotous and breach of peace against Bennie Ortiz, 19, 110 S. Conejos St. Both charges were dismissed when the complaining witnesses failed to appear in court.

Walter Avery, 23, 3233 E. Brookline St., entered not guilty pleas to two charges of disorderly conduct and requested a jury trial. Judge Asher set Nov. 12 as a date for setting of the trial.

George Renkel, 20, 2130 W. Cucharas St., had his hearing to a charge of reckless driving continued until Nov. 20.

DEBBIE REYNOLDS

'Mary, Mary' Coming to Peak

Comedy is a precision job, like cutting a diamond, in the opinion of Barry Nelson—who should know. He has scored personal successes on stage in such mirth-makers as "The Moon Is Blue," "The Rat Race," "No Time For Sergeants," not to mention "Mary Mary", for the screen version of which he re-created his Broadway portrayal. The new Warner Bros. Technicolor opening Wednesday at the Peak Theatre with features at 1, 3, 41, 6, 22 and 9:03 p.m. daily, co-stars Nelson with Debbie Reynolds, Michael Rennie, Hiram Sherman and Diane McBain.

Mervyn LeRoy directed the film.

"In a drama, an actor can give a half-hearted performance and get away with it," says Nelson. "The momentum of a dramatic situation carries him along. But in comedy, it is the actor who carries the situation along."

There's where the precision-work comes in, according to Nelson. "Comedy is intrinsically as rhythmic as ballet," he explains. "Once the pattern is developed, the actor has to stick with it. A stand-up comedian can improvise, but acting comedy is something else again."

O'Neill Story To FAC

"Long Day's Journey Into Night," film version of Eugene O'Neill's Pulitzer Prize winning play, will be shown at the Fine Arts Center at 2, 30, 6, 50 and 9, 15 p.m. Tuesday.

Starring Katharine Hepburn (who was nominated for an Academy Award for her performance), Jason Robards Jr., Ralph Richardson and Dean Stockwell, the movie is an unrelenting autobiography of O'Neill's own life and that of his family—a story which the author himself said was "written in tears and blood."

The story telescopes the action of several months into one single day, during which his father's sloth and frustration combine with his brother's alcoholism and his mother's narcotic addiction to bring about one of the most dynamic climaxes in motion picture history.

No screenplay was written for the film: the playscript was considered to be beyond improvement and ideally suited to the motion picture medium. O'Neill was the son of a famous romantic actor (played by Ralph Richardson) and spent most of his early years touring the country with his famous father. At the age of 24, he contracted tuberculosis and it was during his convalescence that he began to write plays.

It was not until he was 50, however, that he was able to write about the tragic and traumatic period of this story. The film is the first in history in which all four stars received Best Acting Awards at the Cannes Film Festival.

Jack Webb Won't Quit--Warner's TV Goes on!

HOLLYWOOD — Jack Webb tells me, "I don't so I'm not resigning as head of Warner's TV after seven months. When I came here Warner's had no programs on the air. We now have two. This is highly competitive business — it takes time to get a show on the road. We have some exciting projects in the works. No Time for Sergeants, The Astounding Adventures of Phileas Fogg, which begins where 80 Days left off, Wendy and Me, a comedy series with George Burns and Connie Stevens, and another series for Troy Donahue. We may not get all these on, but at least we're planning."

"It's a Mad, Mad, World" and Hollywood's out to prove it to those 250 visiting newspaper people from 'round the globe. They dined with Kramer in his home Halloween night (same evening the Balenciaga for men, Sy Deore, tossed a big do), and will see the picture Sunday at our new Cinerama Theater, which looks like a glorified quonset hut. The rest of the week was filled with parties—a reception honoring Joan Sutherland, cocktails for Commander Whitehead, fashion show with Bob Cummings emceeing at Bullock's for women of Hollywood museum, opening of "Night of the Iguana," and on and on into the middle of November.

Judy Garland and June Allyson looked as tho they were doing a Bob Hope yo-yo dance on Judy's show. Speaking of Hope, the baseball players — Don Drysdale, Tommy Davis, and Sandy Koufax — came thru with all the dignity you associate with Fred Astaire.

As for that Russian circus, the two things superior to ours were the bear and the elephant. A group of intellectuals he could David Susskind finally found mislead on "Open End." —kids of 7 and 8. The horror show of the week.

Zsa Zsa Gabor's getting restless rattling in that Bel Aire mansion; wants to get back to work and may have her own series. Meanwhile she's keeping her spirits high guesting with Joey Bishop, a new neighbor of mine.

You'd be horrified to know what broke up the marriage of Carolyn Jones and Aaron Spelling. This separation will definitely end in divorce.

Kevin McCarthy kept his promise, delivered seven of his sister Mary's literary work including her best seller, "The Group," along with a happy Halloween card that read, "To prove I like you as I do. I'm sending my favorite pet to you!" I opened the card, and out came a bat.

When Pat Buttram emceed Phil Silvers' dinner at the Masquers, somebody suggested he should do the same job for the Academy Awards.

"Thanks," said Pat, "but I don't do 'out of town' shows." Don't know what Robert Young is doing since "Father Knows Best," but his delightful co-star, Jane Wyatt, is playing in "The Strangers" at Westport, Conn.

Donald Crisp returned from an extended fishing trip in Canada to a sad homecoming. One of his nieces whom he'd brought over from England, Mrs. Ivy Raymond, died suddenly, and they still don't know the cause. Crisp will do a special narration for "Greyfriar's Bobby," the picture he made in Scotland, before Walt Disney releases it for TV.

Diana Flynn and Mort Sall spend two weeks in New York this month. Their home here is vaguely on the market, but Diana's scared somebody will buy it and she'll have to move. But where?

The Lloyd Nolans are ecstatic about finding an apartment in Madrid for $9 a day — kitchen, maid service, and free phone calls. First two are fine, but he'll find out that free telephone is a big nothing. Wait till he tries getting a call thru. Lloyd has made hundreds of pictures — "Circus," filming in Spain, is his first with John Wayne.

Three Features At 8th Street

A bonus feature has been added to the regular program showing at the 8th Street Drive-in Theatre tonight.

Frank Sinatra is starred in the laugh hit, "Come Blow Your Horn." The second feature, "The Nutty Professor," stars Jerry Lewis as an absent-minded college professor. The bonus feature, "Splendor in the Grass," stars Natalie Wood and is in color.

No extra admission is charged for the added feature.

Talented Co-Star

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Buddy Ebsen, co-star of "The Beverly Hillbillies" on television, has had 18 songs published.

He's writing the lyrics for another which will be used in his latest picture, "Mail Order Bride."

'Lawrence' Still Showing at Peak

The problem of bringing the clothing worn by Arabs to the Arabian desert must appear to non-Hollywoodians very much like bringing water to a man who is drowning. But it was no joke, and it was no easy chore for one of the world's top designers, Phyllis Dalton, when she was retained by producer Sam Spiegel to provide the wardrobe for the 7-Academy Award-winning film, the Sam Spiegel-David Lean production, "Lawrence of Arabia," now showing in the final four days at the Peak Theatre with performances at 12:25, 4:10 and 8 p.m. daily, in SuperPanavision and Technicolor.

"I know," said Miss Dalton, "that there is a widely-held belief that the Arabs in 'Lawrence of Arabia' worn their own clothes. This is not so, for many changes of location filming from Jordan to Spain and Morocco. We had to provide everything."

"We bought, stole, designed and redesigned native Arab costumes not only for Peter O'Toole, Alec Guinness, Omar Sharif and the others, but even for the film's thousands of extras."

'Spencer's Mtn.' Broadmoor Fare

Versatile Henry Fonda was enthusiastically okayed for the role of Clay Spencer, the dedicated mountain man — a hard-working, hard-drinking, hard-living, hard-loving, rough-talking rugged individualist, father of nine children — in "Spencer's Mountain," the moving Warner Bros. romantic drama opening Wednesday at the Broadmoor Theatre.

He was enthusiastically okayed for the role by a dedicated man — a hard-working, hard-drinking, hard-living, hard-loving, rough-talking rugged individualist, father of nine — who is the real life "Clay Spencer."

Delmer Daves based the script for production of "Spencer's Mountain" on the best-selling novel by Earl Hamner, Jr. Hamner based his novel on the adventures of his father and of his father's clan.

Showing for the last four days Jean Seberg and Stanley Baker are starred in "In the French Style."

Sneak Preview At Peak Friday

One of Hollywood's latest creations is set to be "sneaked" Friday at the Peak Theatre. Like all "sneaks," the title and cast are not permitted to be given but the many thousands that found "Irma la Douce" rewarding will find this one even more rewarding.

The sneak will show just before and after the regular program, "Mary Mary," at approximately 6:22 p.m.

'Honor' Starts Thursday at Ute

Few events can command the public's attention over an extended period of time as does a murder trial.

A basic human law is involved, the Biblical adage of an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth. Someone has been slain; someone must be punished. And thru it all is the dominating, suspenseful question: Is the accused innocent or guilty?

For this reason, the tense drama of murder trials has become prime fare for novels, plays, television and motion pictures. Newest of these is the Ute Theatre's "Twilight of Honor," screen version of the best-selling novel by Al Dewlen, opening Thursday. The Perlberg-Seaton production introduces Richard Chamberlain, television's famous "Dr. Kildare," in his first motion picture starring role and in an entirely new characterization as a crusading defense attorney.

Kelly Cast

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Brian Kelly, star of the old "Straightaway" show, has been cast in the pilot film for the new "Flipper" series.

Aircadia Books 'Beach Party'

An all-star comedy, musical and romantic cast, plus Southern California's famed vacation beach resorts and the new sport of surfing, are featured in American International's "Beach Party," opening Wednesday at the Aircadia Drive-in Theatre.

Top lining the color and Panavision musical comedy are Bob Cummings, Dorothy Malone, Frankie Avalon and Annette Funicello. Also starring are Harvey Lembeck, Jody McCrea, John Ashley, Morey Amsterdam and Eav Six, with Surfers' Idol Dick Dale and his Del-Tones featured.

The Pacific Ocean beach playgrounds and the young-in-heart people of all ages who frequent them form the background and location of the light-hearted action, romance, comedy and music of "Beach Party."

Amidst his gaiety and relaxation, put a serious-minded, madcap college professor and his girl friend bent upon observing vacationing young people at play in order to catalog their morals and sex habits for a book. Add a typical sampling of wholesome young Americans with a few bad apples thrown in and you have the ingredients for a memorable musical comedy romance highlighted by a dozen new and refreshing songs and dances.

Vincent Price and Lon Chaney are starred in the second feature, "The Haunted Palace."

Give Time

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Mary Tyler Moore and Gary Crosby will be in the March of Dimes television show to be filmed early next year.

8th Street Will Show 'Mr. Hobbs'

Moviegoers who remember the Jimmy Stewart of "Harvey" and "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington" are in for a full-course treat when the latest Stewart laugh-provoker, 20th Century-Fox's CinemaScope - DeLuxe Color comedy "Mr. Hobbs Takes a Vacation," opens Sunday at the 8th Street Drive-in Theatre. Playing Roger Hobbs, a badgered, bewildered... yet somehow noble example of American Fatherhood, Stewart takes full advantage of the humor inherent in his real-life role of family man and father of four.

Writing an imaginary letter to his wife (played by Maureen O'Hara) in reference to the extensive Hobbs clan (Lauri Peters, Fabian, John Saxon, Natalie Trundy and Josh Peine), Mr. Hobbs clues the hilarity to come: "My darling Peggy: There is no man alive who believes more devoutly than I that the family is the rock of civilization, but I will tell you frankly I would rather be shot from a cannon than be trapped in the same house with my family for a month's vacation!"

Torin Thacher and Mariete Hartley are starred in the second feature, "Drums of Africa."

'Ticklish Affair' At Chief Sunday

Astronauts are all the rage these days, and there's a captivating one in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's rib-tickling new romantic comedy, "A Ticklish Affair," starting Sunday at the Chief Theatre. He is 6-year-old Peter Robbins, who makes a high-flying screen debut by taking off toward the clouds in a U. S. Navy weather balloon. And when you see Pete sail high over the city of San Diego, soar over the city's famed zoo and then over the Pacific, you're going to be just as tense and apprehensive of his safety as are Shirley Jones and Carolyn Jones, watching the suspenseful flight from the ground, and Gig Young and Red Buttons, who come to his rescue.

Shirley plays the attractive Navy widow, Amy Martin, doing her best to be both mother and father to three fun-loving little boys. Gig Young is Cmdr. Key Weedon, who is trying to persuade Amy to let him take over the "father" role. Red Buttons is Simon, Amy's brother.

Gunnison Area Site For Movie

GUNNISON — Some time in December, Warner Brothers with John Ford as director, will be in the Gunnison area for filming winter scenes in the Technicolor and Panavision 70 movie, "Cheyenne Autumn." The cast and company are now in Monument Valley and will soon move to location in Moab, Utah.

Local shooting will take place on the L. W. Francis ranch on Ohio Creek, 13 miles from the City of Gunnison. One of the company officials estimates about 150 people will be on location here.

The ranch will be seen as Fort Robinson in the movie, where the Indians are finally brought into custody after their "long flight."

Director John Ford remembered the ranch as a possible site after directing "The Searchers" here about ten years ago.

Technicians who have already visited the location are: Russ Saunders, Unit Manager; Jack Woods, still photographer and his assistant Ralph Webb; Dick Day, Art Director; and Glenn Metz, coordinator of construction.

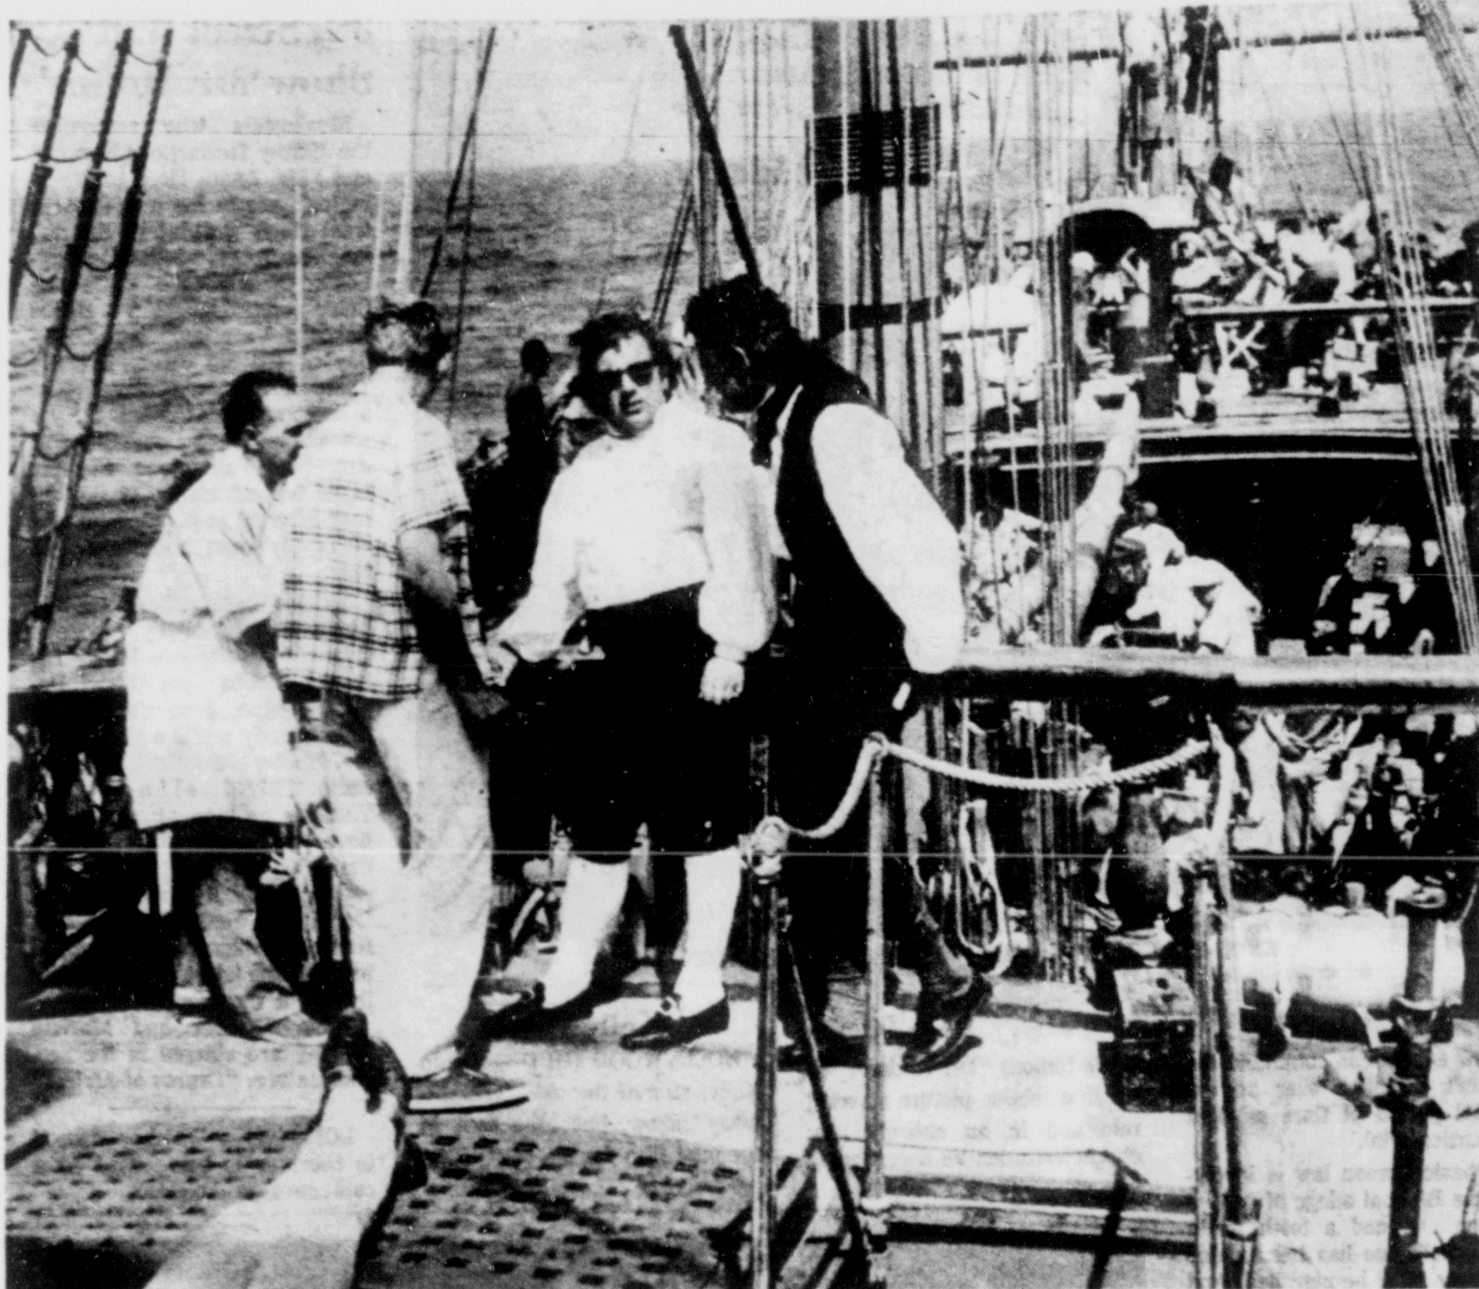

Some of the better known stars who may be on location here are: Karl Malden, Sal Mineo, Carroll Baker, Richard Widmark, Ricardo Montalban, Dolores Del Rio, and Gilbert Roland. Other stars in the movie include Spencer Tracy, James Stewart and George O'Brien.

FIGHT DISCRIMINATION

NEW YORK (UPI) — A gift of $22,000 received by United Church Women from the Jacob R. Schiff Charitable Trust rounds out the full amount of $100,000 needed to carry out the group's three-year nation-wide program to combat racial discrimination, it was announced here by Carrie E. Meares, project director.

Launched two years ago at UCW's National Assembly in Miami Beach, the project already has succeeded in integrating many inter-demoninational councils of church women, even in the deep South, in obtaining formation of community committees of human rights and Meares said.

This was the largest of the ships used in production of "Billy Budd." The scene is repeated in Capt. Alan Villiers' travelog, "Making Sea Movies," at the Fine Arts Center Nov. 9-10. The

'New Kind Love' Showing at Ute

The romantic and fashionable city of Paris is the setting for Producer-Director Melville Shavelson's new film, "A New Kind of Love," in Technicolor, starring Paul Newman and Joanne Woodward. This extremely funny comedy is now showing at the Ute Theatre.

The story revolves around Steve Sherman (Paul Newman), a hot shot newspaper reporter who is exiled to Paris for being too friendly with his editor's wife, and Samantha Blake (Joanne Woodward), a career girl who is all work and no play.

"A New Kind of Love" has everything a good comedy is supposed to have, and then some. The dialog is sharp and witty, the scenic views of romantic Paris are superb, and the fun is plentiful.

As Steve and Samantha, Paul Newman and Joanne Woodward show excellent versatility as actor and actress. The supporting cast headed by Thelma Ritter, Eva Gabor, George Tobias and Marvin Kaplan also do a very professional job.

'Rampage' to Be Shown at Chief

Robert Mitchum's role in "Rampage," the Seven Arts-Warner Bros. drama in Technicolor which opens Wednesday at the Chief Theatre, gives him a lot of range — drawing room to jungle, evening clothes to sloppy pants, brandy snifter to holstered pistol. There are also some tantalizing detours such as the shower-bath where co-star Elsa Martinelli catches him barefooted, as it were, and the moving train where his other co-star, Jack Hawkins, tries to have him destroyed by a wild animal. All these ins-and-outs Mitchum meets with the aplomb that is his trademark.

The brawny actor let himself be lured out of his 200-acre Maryland farm by the provocative "Rampage" role, that of a big-game trapper on an expedition for two tigers and a fabled beast known as "The Enchantress." The jaunt includes big-game trapper Hawkins and his youthful mistress, personi-

The Wonderful World of Sauna

By DONNA LOGAN
Leisuretime Editor

Now I know the secret of Scandinavian vigah—it's the Sauna.

That age-old tradition has cleansed so many generations of Norsemen they couldn't help but keep their rosey complexions and robust health.

Let's face it—you have to be healthy to withstand 20 minutes in 165-degree temperature topped with a three-minute cold shower. At least Americans have adopted the practice without adding that Finnish custom of beating each other with birch branches while they're in there cooking!

But it's not as bad as all that, actually. The 165-degree heat is DRY, not like the steamroller moisture from a steam bath. In fact, humidity in the dry heat bath only gets to six per cent—or below.

Why is it called a bath if there's no water, then?

Because you sweat—and sweat profusely. It's not a matter of simply perspiring. And this sweating is what opens up every pore in your little old body in a thorough-going cleansing action.

I found out about it first-hand this week down at the new Viking Sauna room at six 30 Coiffures, 630 N. Tejon St. The management there turned a spare room over to the Viking Sauna people who in turn converted it into a redwood-paneled private Sauna with shower and relaxing rooms attached.

First thing to do if you're so inclined is to find out the right procedure for the Sauna. There are directions on the wall to remind you not to wear jewelry, except for finger rings, because of course the metal would heat to a burning point.

Another must for women is to wrap a small towel around the hair—not to protect the head, but to save it from the drying heat. Patrons at Six 30 Coiffures will get a special hair-conditioning treatment before they take the Sauna.

In place of your street clothes, which you may hang in the closet, you adorn yourself in a 10-foot "toga"—a king sized towel.

Then it's into Sauna room where the heat has taken the mercury up to 165 degrees, and can go up as high as 220 degrees. There's a thermometer on the wall to tell you this. A special Viking electric stove in the corner is thermostatically controlled to keep the temperature steady. On the stove are several special igneous rocks which conduct the heat into the room. In authentic Finnish Saunas, the rocks are heated on a wood-burning stove in a room lined with aspen-wood. But Americans are using redwood, which is just as good and holds the heat without becoming too hot. The redwood panels are fitted together perfectly without the use of nails.

Inside the room are two tiers of redwood bleachers on which you can either sit or lie down. The upper tier is of course, the warmer because as everyone knows by now, hot air rises.

You set a plastic time clock for 10 minutes and just simply relax. There's no fighting it. When that heat hits you, it goes right thru to every bone and muscle and it's not uncomfortable.

Inside the room is piped-in music to keep you company, and you can look out a glass window in the door in case you're claustrophobically-inclined.

After a brief 10 minutes, the timer rings and you get out of the Sauna for a three-minute warm soap-and-water shower, drying with that 10-foot wrap-around.

Back again to the Sauna, you reset the timer for 10 minutes (or 15 if you wish) and relax some more. This time your body is really heated and, as the advertisement says, "Perspiration is copious."

After this second Sauna, it's back to the shower for a cooling off. If you don't take a cold shower, your pores won't close and you're in danger of taking cold, so the cold shower is a must. It's really not so bad—in Finland the natives roll in the snow at this point!

Then you put on a terrycloth bathrobe and go to the relaxing room for 20 minutes of rest and relaxation. If you don't rest, you'll continue this "copious perspiration" long after you're back in everyday dress.

And THAT, my friends, is what a Finnish Sauna is all about.

At Six 30 Coiffures, however, there's more. Patrons may make appointments for the 30-minute Sauna, then have their hair washed, shampooed and set.

The management has designated 5-9 p.m. Monday thru Wednesday as "men's" nights, and all other times for the ladies, particularly Thursday night when the salon stays open longer.

The price for just the Sauna is $2, but salon patrons get special rates.

Six 30 Coiffures is the first establishment in Colorado Springs to have a Viking Sauna installed by the John G. Hendrie Company, sole Colorado distributors.

The Broadmoor Hotel will have two Viking Saunas installed soon.

If you'd like one in your home, you can contact the Hendrie company at 531½ S. Weber St., 635-2275. They'll be glad to give you information.

Postal Union Gets Special Cancellation

A special cancellation has been authorized for use at the State Department station, Washington, D.C., for the meeting of the Management Council of the Universal Postal Union's Consultative Committee on Postal Studies (Commission Consultative des Etudes Postales — CCEP), to be held Oct. 28 to Nov. 8, 1963.

The pictorial portion of the cancellation will depict the Capitol, the Washington Monument and the Lincoln Memorial, in addition to the lettering C C E P Washington, D.C. 1963. The abbreviation U P U will also appear in the bars.

Collectors may obtain the cancellation by presenting stamped envelopes at the station between 8:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. on the above dates. Requests submitted to the Postmaster, Washington, D.C. 20013, during the period Oct. 28 to Nov. 8 will receive this special cancellation. 'La Traviata' Production Crew Add Finishing Touches

MAKE-UP — Archer Hayes (seated), who plays the Marquis d'Obigny, gets a make-up application from the make-up crew in readiness for the Colorado Springs Opera Association's production later this week of "La Traviata." Edy Burger Lends Talents As Stage Director for Opera

Just as the names Rudolph Bing and the Metropolitan are synonymous, so are the names Edalyn Burger and Colorado Springs Opera.

As founder and first president of the Theater Singers almost 12 years ago, Mrs. Burger was the single most influential person in bringing opera in English to this community. Right now she is busy staging the opening production of the Colorado Springs Opera Association "La Traviata," to be seen at the Fine Arts Center theater November 7, 8 and 9.

Besides her talents as a stage director, Mrs. Burger is a singer of statewide reputation. Her mezzo soprano voice has been heard in many Theater Singer roles, such as the princess in "Sister Angelica," the title role in "The Medium" and the mother in "Amahl and the Night Visitors."

Her roles with the Opera Association include the title role in "Carmen," the witch in "Hansel and Gretel" and others.

Mrs. Burger appeared at Red Rocks this past summer with the Red Rocks-Denver Symphony under the direction of Vasilios Priakos in scenes from "Il Trovatore" and "Cavalleria Rusticana."

On Nov. 8, she will be seen on the TV program "Route 66" entitled "The Stone Guest" in a scene from "Don Giovanni," filmed in Denver this summer.

Besides her regular work as stage director for the Opera Association, Mrs. Burger is a voice teacher at Loretto Heights College in Denver, where she directs the girls' choral group and Opera Workshop.

She is also a regular performer with the Mario Singers of Denver. When opera lovers see "La Traviata" performed next week, they can be assured that the costumes are as authentic, the sets as beautiful and the action as dramatic as Mrs. Burger can make them.

Reverse Tourist

Reversing the usual procedure of American tourists abroad with long shopping lists of gifts for friends, actor Larry Blyden, who stars in "Harry's Girls" on NBC-TV, came home to the U. S. with a long shopping list. He is currently in France filming the new show; and when his many French friends learned he was coming to New York for a week, they asked him to buy many American products, including baseballs and bats as gifts for the kids.

Denver Man Sings Role Of 'Germont'

Opera lovers will be privileged to hear a very talented young man from Denver named Stanley Burk in the role of Germont.

A bass-baritone, Burk plays the role of a villain to the happy lovers when he asks the lovely heroine Violetta to renounce her love for Alfredo.

Burk is a regular performer with the Mario Singers in Denver and is a teacher at Grant Junior High School in Littleton. Within the last year, he has sung the roles of Betto in "Gianni Schicci" with the Mario Singers, Balthazar in "Amahl and the Night Visitors" and was bass soloist when Antonia Brico conducted the Verdi Requiem.

He also sang selections from "Carmen" and "The Music Man" with the Denver Symphony Orchestra at Elitch Gardens.

Plays Feminine Lead

Barbara Eden, remembered as "Loco" in the "How to Marry a Millionaire" TV series, and for her recent performance in "The Wonderful World of the Brothers Grimm," now stars with Tony Randall and Burl Ives in "The Brass Bottle."

Volunteers Lend Talents for Backstage Production Chores

When the curtain goes up on "La Traviata" at the Fine Arts Center theater Thursday, Friday and Saturday, there will be almost as many people involved in the backstage production as there are singers, chorus members and orchestra personnel.

Teason Portrays 'Gaston'

Hugh Teason, who will portray the role of Gaston in "La Traviata," is a supervisory staff accountant with Air Defense Command Headquarters. He is a native of Colorado Springs and graduate of Colorado College.

When the Colorado Springs Opera Association produced "The Jumping Frog" last season, Teason sang the role of first craps shooter. He has also appeared in the chorus of Opera Association productions of "The Bartered Bride," "The Mikado," and "Carmen."

A student of H. Colin Thorpe, Teason is tenor soloist in the East Methodist Church Choir. He plays string bass with many instrumental groups including the Colorado Springs Symphony and Allen Uhles dance orchestra.

Teason is president of the Colorado Springs Lion's Club and a member of their prize-winning quartet. He has appeared as an end man and "Dixieland" clarinet player in many of the Lion's Club minstrel shows. And when he can find time in his busy schedule he likes to play bass with Max McRoberts well-known "Gut Bucket Seven."

While Dr. J. Julius Baird is rehearsing the musical production, Mrs. Edalyn Burger is busy staging the opera and working out the many details of costuming, makeup, lighting, dance and sets with her committees.

All members of the committees are volunteers and receive nothing for their hours of work except the satisfaction of a smoothly-run production that satisfies the need for opera in this community.

Those who work with Mrs. Burger on "La Traviata" are: Mrs. Ed McDonald, and her costume committee, Mrs. Donald Semon, Mrs. Aiko Studevant, Mrs. W. F. McConnell, and Mrs. Theron Bergman; Mrs. Margaret Wallace and her makeup committee, Nick Agnos and Suzanne Shurman of Alexander Film Co.

Choreographer is Norman Cornick; props are handled by chairmen; Barbara Thomas, Betty McCandless and Virginia

Moving Sidewalks

PARIS — The City of Light's first "moving sidewalks" will be installed next year in one of Paris' busiest subway stations. The Chatelet stop of the Metro on the right bank, not far from Notre Dame Cathedral, sees four subway lines come together, and the two 400-ft.-long moving sidewalks will allow eight to ten thousand "strap-hangers" an hour to switch from platform to platform with a minimum of confusion.

Norton; set design by Walter Wilson; stage crew is headed by Ken Cunningham assisted by Stan Myers, Marshall Cross and Richard Scott; lighting and other details are handled by Bishop Nash of the Fine Arts Center staff; programs by the Rev. Paul Towner.

Others who are not directly involved with production details but who contribute to the success of the opera are Mr. and Mrs. Otto Praeger Jr., ticket secretary of the association, Ruth Moon, promotion chairman; and all members of the board of directors of the Opera Association.

Tickets are available at the box office, 519 N. Tejon St., at $3 for single seats; $8 for season tickets.

The box office will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. starting Monday. Orders may be placed by telephone at 634-6820 during these hours.

"QUILLON & GIANT"

... the story of a toymaker who saves his village from an evil giant opens the "NBC CHILDREN'S THEATRE" this Sunday.

Televised in color, "Quillon and the Giant" is based on a fantasy by James Thurber and features Will Stracke in the role of the giant. The rest of the cast is comprised of the George Latshaw puppets.

Army-AFA Clash On KKTV

The service academy clash between Army and Air Force will be broadcast regionally on NCAA football at 12:15 p.m. today on KKTV.

Army meets Air Force at Soldier Field, Chicago. The game is to be broadcast in the East and Midwest. Lindsey Nelson (play by play), Terry Brennan (grid analysis) and Jim Simpson (field reporter) are the television commentators.

Army scored its fifth victory of the season last Saturday by shutting out Washington State, 23-0. The team's other wins were over Wake Forest, 47-0; Penn State, 10-7; Cincinnati, 22-0, and Boston University, 30-0. The Cadets' lone loss came at the hands of Minnesota.

Air Force has won four and lost two. Last Saturday the Falcons routed Boston College, 34-7. Previously, they defeated Nebraska, 17-13; Colorado State, 69-0, and Washington, 10-7. The two defeats were at the hands of Southern Methodist and Maryland.

Wanted: Float Queen for Tournament of Roses Parade

Do you know a young woman age 18 thru 24 who would like to be queen of a float in the Pasadena Tournament of Roses on New Years Day and receive an all-expense-paid trip to Pasadena?

"If so, here's your chance to do some neighbor or a family friend or even a member of your own family a favor!" Says R. M. Paulson, agent for Farmers Insurance Group in Colorado Springs. "Our company is looking for a queen to be 'Miss Liberty' on its 'In God We Trust' float in the 1964 Tournament of Roses parade.

Winner of the contest will reign as "Miss Liberty" on the Tournament of Roses float. Second place winner will receive an expense-paid trip to Portland and be queen of the company's Portland Rose Festival float in June, and third place winner will receive an expense paid trip to Pasadena to see the parade on New Years Day.

Top winner in the local contest will be named "Miss Liberty of Colorado Springs." Her entry will be forwarded to the state contest. Winner of the state contest will be "Miss Liberty of Colorado."

The state winner's photograph will be forwarded to Hollywood, Calif., for judging for the first, second, and third prize in the national contest by TV and Film Stars Bob Hope, Dennis Day, Robert Cummings, and Ann Blythe.

Paulson said that the contest is open to any unmarried young woman in the company's 26-state operating territory, which includes the State of Colorado except an employee of the Farmers Insurance Group, family or agents. Age limit is 18 to 24 inclusive. The contest must submit an 8 x 10 inch portrait of herself taken not earlier than 1962. All photographs become the property of Farmers Insurance Group and will not be returned. Decision of the judges will be final.

In addition to riding on the float, the national first place winner will attend the Rose Bowl football game, visit Disneyland, and other sightseeing attractions in California. She will arrive in southern California on December 29, 1963, and depart on January 2, 1964.

Winner of the national second place will participate in activities in Portland in June, 1964, similar to those planned for the southern California visit. Exact dates of her arrival and departure will be announced.

National third place winner will receive an expense paid trip to the 1964 Pasadena Tournament of Roses. She will see the parade, attend the Rose Bowl football game, visit Disneyland and other points of interest in southern California. She will arrive on December 29, 1963, and depart on January 2, 1964. All three winners will be chaperoned during their respective visits by a female employee of Farmers Insurance Group.

Entry blanks, which should be filled out in triplicate, may be obtained at 750 E. Pikes Peak Ave. All entries must be postmarked no later than midnight, Dec. 1, 1963.

Hudson in Slapstick

Rock Hudson makes his first try at slapstick comedy in "Man's Favorite Sport?" Just as Mack Sennett surrounded his Keystone Kops with bathing beauties, director Howard Hawks has ringed Hudson with a delectable trio — brunette Paula Prentiss, blonde Maria Perschy and titian Charlene Holt.

Music Hall Record

"Charade," starring Cary Grant and Audrey Hepburn, will be Grant's 26th film to play New York's Radio City Music Hall — total run for the first 25 was 105 weeks. His closest competitor is Fred Astaire, but the total playing time there of Astaire's movies is short more than half of Grant's. Grant's.

MATTER OF PRINCIPAL

Fan mail drawn by NBC-TV's "Mr. Novak" series suggests that veteran Dean Jagers is pushing youthful James Franciscus in viewer popularity. They co-star as high school principal Albert Vane and English teacher John Novak respectively.

STARS IN HARMONY — "The Immortal Jolson," a documentary tracing the life and career of the famed jazz singer, will be broadcast on NBC-TV's "Hollywood and the Stars" at 8:30 p.m. Monday on KOAA-TV, Channel 5. Above, Jolson (left) with guests Alice Faye and James Cagney, during one of his early NBC Radio series.

'En France' Available On Record

More than 35 American television stations are letting American francophiles meet Monsieur Dubois, Rosine, Monsieur Beaulieu, and Monsieur Legrand, as part of a new TV series called "En France." It is seen here at 3:30 p.m. Sundays on KRDO-TV, Channel 13.

The series consists of 26 half-hour French language instruction-entertainment shows that have been produced by Tele-Hachette (Hachette is France's largest book publisher), in association with Hofstra University. It is being underwritten by Seven Arts, a TV-series syndicate, the Time-Life, which owns five stations in Minneapolis (WTCN-TV), Indianapolis (WFMB-TV), Denver (KLZ-TV), San Diego (KOGO-TV), and Grand Rapids (WOOD-TV) will be carrying the programs.

Other stations which have scheduled the new series include WPIX, New York; WHDH-TV, Boston; WCPO-TV, Cincinnati; KCPX-TV, Salt Lake City; KHJ-TV, Los Angeles; and WRC-TV, Washington, D. C.

Monsieur Dubois is a comical "epicier," or grocer, who makes his amusing way into a crowded Paris subway car carrying an over-ripe Camembert Cheese under the not-too-amused faces — and noses — of the other passengers.

Rosine is a charming salesgirl in a Paris department store; Monsieur Beaulieu is a traveling salesman, with many an amusing traveling salesman story to tell as he takes viewers thru the famous French Champagne region.

Along with Monsieur Legrand, a customs officer, these three are among the more than 200 Frenchmen who will be entertaining American TV viewers this season, while also teaching them how to speak French.

Actually, the series is available to all Americans, as well as those who'll be able to listen and watch it over TV. For, Tele-Hachette has put together a set of 40 LP records, totaling eight hours of the "sounds of France" and the French language that will be heard on the TV series.

The records are one part of a "complete reference library on France," which includes a 380-page textbook; the record album, along with 94 pages of drills and exercises, plus lyrics to 26 French songs heard on the records; 1,200 photos of France; maps to the Paris "metro," or subway; "how-to" guides for prospective travelers to France; and a special edition of "France-Soir," France's leading newspaper. The set is available for $24.95 from En France-Hachette, Inc., Box 1749, Grand Central Station, New York 17, New York.

Riviera Hotels Hold Prices

NICE — The Association of Deluxe Hotel on the French Riviera has just announced that room rates for 1964 will remain at the same level as for 1963.

Spokesman for the association, Andre Agid of Nice's Hotel Plaza, said that the 22 member establishments, including such famous hostels as the Majestic and Martinez in Cannes and the Ruhl in Nice, have pledged "no increase in prices," in line with the French Government's concerted anti-inflation measures.

Another announcement of outstanding interest is the founding of the brand new "Club of Five" — a quintet of the finest Riviera hotels: the Negresco, Carlton, Reserve, Grand Hotel du Cap, and Hotel de Paris—which henceforth will offer a "Floating Modified American Plan." The "floating" plan means that a guest will be permitted to wine, dine, be entertained, and even, on occasion, spend the night at any of the "Club of Five" hotels provided he is registered at one of them.

'New Sound' At Pueblo Sunday

Pueblo—The New Sound will ring in Memorial Hall at 8:30 p.m. Sunday with the appearance of Lasry-Baschet Structures Sonores of France.

This amazing group will present sounds and sights of some of the newest musical instruments on earth, says Miss Frieda Bell Altman, who is sponsoring their appearance as the first concert of the 1963-64 Greater Artist Series.

The instruments are the creations of French sculptor Francois Baschet and his brother, Bernard. Together with Jacques Lasry, French composer-conductor, they created and organized the newest of all orchestras.

The instruments are designed from metal sheets, plastic balloons, glass rods and steel bars. They do not utilize electric nor electronic equipment. Percussion, classical and glass bows are used to energize these instruments.

The program will include selections from Bach, Vivaldi, Bartok, American and French folk music and jazz.

The Structures Sonores group has appeared in motion pictures and on television. Their next video appearance is scheduled Nov. 17 on the Ed Sullivan Show.

The new Artist Series also includes the Clebanoff Strings, Feb. 2, the Roger Wagner Chorale, March 8, and the Marina Svetlova Dance Ensemble with pianist Theodor Haig, May 4. Tickets for the Series are available at Miss Altman's office in Memorial Hall, Pueblo.

ARTS CHRONICLE by John Fetter

Art Symposium Planned At Canon City Center

ART SYMPOSIUM IN CANON CITY — From Marge Christie in Canon City we have received the following notice of the art symposium in Canon City in which a number of artists and scholars from Colorado Springs will participate: In conjunction with an annual Fremont County-Regional Art Exhibit opening Saturday, November 9, the Canon City Fine Arts Association has announced a Symposium of the Arts to be held on the afternoon and evening of November 9 in the gallery of the Canon City Fine Arts Center, 426½ Main Street.

The purpose of the symposium is to stimulate and perhaps inspire amateur painters who, for the most part, paint alone and do not relate themselves to what other painters are doing. The theme for the program is to be Experiences in Art, and it will be approached from several viewpoints.

George McCue, teacher, author and amateur painter from Colorado Springs, will be moderator for the forum discussion. Under experiences in art comes the topic: To Lift the Face of a Community. This will be discussed by Blake Chambliss of Grand Junction who was the architect for Operation Foresight there.

Lucille Silva, teacher, of Canon City will tell how the city of Canon City went about it to organize and maintain an arts association which is meaningful to the entire area. Miss Silva has been part of the program since it began in 1947, and is currently a member of the Fine Arts Board of Canon City.

Discussing the subject, To Enjoy Art in Everyday Life, will be Mrs. Carol Gossard of Craig and Steamboat Springs, Colorado. Mrs. Gossard has been allied with many community and personal projects centering on varied phases of the arts. Her subject is dear to her heart and she will bring something of value to the discussion.

Ann Trucksess Dignan, of Boulder, will speak from the standpoint of the relation of the amateur painter to the world of art and other artists. Mrs. Dignan is a professional artist and teacher and in the second generation of a family for whom art has been a way of life.

McCue will lead a general discussion based on the ideas presented by panel speakers following their presentations.

Following the panel discussion, the group will walk over to the new Fremont County Courthouse where Mary McDonough, Fremont County Clerk will guide them thru this beautiful new building. Shortly after that, a Fellowship Dinner will be held at the Club Paradise to provide an opportunity for those attending to get acquainted with each other.

At 7:30 the group will return to the Fine Arts Center where prizes will be awarded for the Fremont County-Regional Art Exhibit. A total of $105 will be presented to winners of first prizes in oil and watercolor paintings in the professional and amateur divisions.

The final event of the day will be a concert by Barbara Thomas, soprano, George Garriques, tenor, and Ida Boatright Hutchison, pianist, all of Colorado Springs. They will sing a program of light music, including a portion of "The Merry Widow" by Franz Lehar.

A fee of $3.50 will cover the expenses of registration, dinner and the concert. Those not wishing to attend the dinner may pay only the $1.00 registration fee.

The Canon City Fine Arts Association has arranged for this program with the idea of adding special interest to the various arts programs thruout the region. Mrs. George Christie is chairman of the Association and general chairman for the symposium. Other members of the Fine Arts Board are working on the exhibit and symposium arrangements.

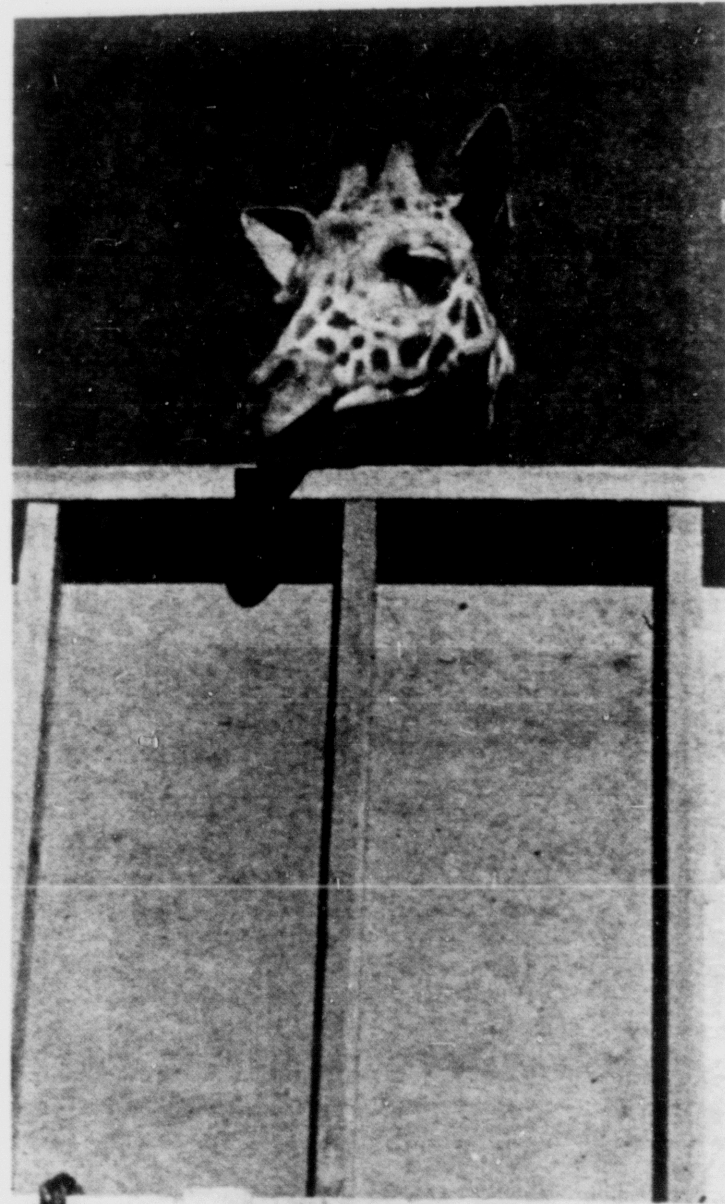

Edgar Britton, artist from Colorado Springs, will jury the exhibit and select those paintings to be exhibited as well as those to receive prizes. This will be done on November 2, so that the exhibit will be ready to open on November 9.

ART SHOW — The annual art show of the Pikes Peak Branch of Pen Women opens Nov. 1 at the Moors. The exhibit marks National Art Month and will close on the 16th with a luncheon meeting of the group at which Dr. Carroll Malone, Colorado College professor emeritus and long-time student of Chinese art, will speak. Members and guests of members may make reservations for the luncheon with Rosalee G. Porter, Branch Art Chairman, who is in charge of the exhibit and program, 633-6801.

Participating in the show will be professional members of the branch: Mrs. Porter, pastels; Dorothy Young, crushed rock paintings; Bertha O. Klug, watercolors; Bonny Benschneider, watercolors and oils; Grace Blackwell, Canon City member, oils; Wanda Beal, Limon member, oils and wood collages. These Pen Women artists have exhibited thruout the country receiving awards in a variety of media. Guest artist — members of the branch who have not qualified as professionals by sales and juried shows — displaying their work are Ethel Brown and Helena Chase Johnston.

Also participating will be students of a class, in pastel painting conducted by the art chairman, Rosalee G. Porter. These students are: Myrtle Allen, Frances Trapp, Helen Wylie and Nell Womack Evans, professional writer members of the branch.

The National League of American Pen Women is one of oldest organizations of its kind in the United States, having been formed in 1897 in Washington, D. C., where it maintains headquarters for the 6,000 membership of writers, artists and composers, of professional standing. The Pikes Peak Branch is one of 50 and was chartered in 1954, with the late Sylvia Pezoldt as its founder and first president. Helen Wylie is the present president of the 26-member branch.

ART GUILD — From Jeanette Ward, corresponding secretary of the Art Guild, comes the notice that officers have been nominated at the October meeting, and will be elected at the November meeting of the Guild. Mrs. Ward also reported that an "Own Your Own" sales exhibition of art is scheduled to open Nov. 17 at the Pueblo College Students Center. Entry blanks may be obtained by the Art Department at S.C.S.C. in Pueblo. The exhibition is open to all artists residing in Colorado.

Among new members of the local Art Guild are Edward Drew and Hazel Schartz. Items of art interest may be called in to Mrs. Ward at 633-3731.

Max Morath On TV Tonite

Max Morath, popular ragtime pianist and son of Gladys Morath, the Gazette Telegraph society editor, will appear on "Hootenanny" at 5:30 tonight on KRDO-TV, Channel 13.

Morath, who lives in Denver, will join The Brothers Four, the Good Time Singers, comic Louis Nye, the Travelers Three and the Dalton Boys.

Jack Linkletter is host for the weekly show which will be staged on the UCLA campus.

Jason Robards, Jr. creates an unforgettable portrayal as the star of "One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich," airing at 6:30 p.m. Friday on "Bob Hope Presents the Chrysler Theatre," in color, over KOAA-TV.

Robards plays Denisovich, a political dissenter condemned to hard labor in a Siberian prison camp during the regime of Josef Stalin.

It is a compelling successor to Robards' starring role in "For Whom the Bell Tolls" a few seasons ago. It also fits his determination to work with "fresh, challenging material."

"The play's the thing, always has been," Robards contends. "What the playwright thinks is more important than what the actor thinks. The actor's job is to express the author's intentions. The great sin is to twist the author's words so that they exploit the actor instead of the play."

The son of Jason Robards, Sr., the late matinee idol of his day, Jason, Jr. was shoved out of his home and into the world at the age of 17 by his father.

"Son, I love you," Jason Sr.

said, "and I'm doing this because I love you."

Jason, Jr. enlisted in the Navy and was at Pearl Harbor when the Japanese attacked. Later at Guadalcanal, he was on the Northampton when it was sunk. Jason stayed afloat in the water for 6 hours until he was picked up. At the war's end, he had 13 battle stars.

Robards' youthful interest had been in sports, and he considered becoming a baseball player or announcer. He did take a high school course in dramatics and claims he almost flunked out. "I think they passed me because I was the star miler on the track team," he says.

Eventually, tho, he enrolled in the American Academy of Dramatic Arts and made his Broadway bow in 1948 as a spear carrier with the D'Oyly Carte company. He has starred in many long-run hits since then, including "The Iceman Cometh," "Long Day's Journey Into Night," "Toys in the Attic," "The Disenchanted," and "A Thousand Clowns."

He will next be seen on stage starring in Arthur Miller's new play, "After the Fall," the opening production of the Lincoln Center Repertory Theatre.

Friends Made It

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J. (UPI) — Singer Bobby Darin and Don Kirshner, vice-president of Columbia Pictures' music department, once earned money as hopefuls writing commercials for New Jersey furniture manufacturers.

It was at Don's home here that Darin and Sandra Dee were married.

CALAIS — Some 300 persons were stranded in France recently when a ferry boat sailed ahead of schedule.

Sister City Program Advanced

Former President Eisenhower has urged all Americans to make a personal contribution to peace by joining People-to-People, the world friendship movement which he heads.

Writing in the November Reader's Digest, Eisenhower characterizes the seven-year-old movement as "an epidemic of friendship among peoples of the world" and urges that its activities "be increased a hundredfold."

Thousands of local projects have already been effected, Eisenhower asserts in the exclusive article. They range from letters exchanged by schoolchildren to "sister-city" affiliations of U.S. and foreign communities. These, he says, "provide clear proof that, given a chance, people will make friends across, around, over and under all the natural and man-made barriers which separate them."

Colorado Springs is affiliated with the city of Fuji-Yoshida, Japan, and exchanges of all kinds are carried on between the officials, local citizens and school children of Colorado Springs and Fuji-Yoshida. This Town Affiliation under the "Sister City" Program was formed in February, 1962. Mayor Harry Hoth and certain city officials serve as honorary members of the "Sister City" committee.

Colorado Springs has exchanged a number of official visitors with Fuji-Yoshida, has exchanged gifts and has started a "pen pal" movement between the grade and high school students of the two cities.

The most recent exchanges being undertaken are in the field of school exhibits and information. The Harrison High School advanced Art Classes taught by George J. Burnett, 115 N. Hayman St., has prepared an art exhibit of local scenes, and paintings of school activities to exchange in the near future with Fuji-Yoshida High School. Miss Diana Overstreet, 1904 S. Hancock St., a student at Harrison High School is the chairman of the Art Class Committee for the painting exhibit.

James W. Reeves, principal of Adams Elementary School, and a member of the "Sister City" Committee has prepared material giving much information about our local high schools and junior high schools which was requested recently by the high schools of Fuji-Yoshida.

It is hoped to have another meeting of the Colorado Springs "Sister City" Committee in the near future. Anyone interested in working on this committee and for the "Sister City" Program is urged to call William Vandel, 2116 Lark Dr., phone 633-0544.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The character of a King of England has been added to "My Fair Lady."

The monarch, as played by Charles Fredericks, will appear in a dream sequence of the movie version of the Broadway smash hit.

Broadway Triumph

Audrey Hepburn, starring with Cary Grant in "Charade," married actor-director Mel Ferrer following her appearance on Broadway in "Ondine," for which she received the Antoinette Perry award. They now have a son, Sean, three years old.

FLOATING DOWN—Prehistoric monsters presented an unusual camera target recently on New York's Hudson River. Our columnist bagged this 50-foot tyrannosaurus against the skyscrapers of lower Manhattan. It is one of eight dinosaurs headed by barge for Sinclair's Dinoland at the 1964 New York World's Fair.

Monsters on Barge Stalked By Curious Photographers

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

This is the hunting season so there I was with my cameras stalking big game. Big? Well, there was a 70-foot brontosaurus, a 50-foot tyrannosaurus, a 40-foot trachodon, a 30-foot corythosaurus, a 25-foot stegosaurus and a couple of smaller dinosaurs.

They appeared out of the mist of upper Hudson River and barged their way in single file past the skyscrapers of Manhattan. River craft scotched near the monsters and circled around. Helicopters buzzed overhead, darted down for a close look and flew off in curving loops. A press boat of observers and photographers paced the expedition to record the invasion in words and pictures.

After all, it's been several million years since a herd of dinosaurs went that-a-way — unpublicized and unrecorded. Times have changed.

Today they were stars, welcomed to the big city by Robert Moses, president of the 1964 New York World's Fair. This was to be their refuge for the next two years. Instead of heading for the caves, they had a haven, Dinoland, and a protector in big industry, Sinclair Oil.

How does one cover a picture story like that? I used two cameras. A Rollei was loaded with high speed Tri-X for black and white. My 35 mm Contaflex Super-B had the new ASA 200 Anscochrome and made good use of both the wideangle 35 mm and the telephoto 115mm lenses.

It was necessary to rise over foreground heads in shooting so there was constant shifting from the ship rail to any elevation for a high camera angle. When we landed at the Battery for the city's official welcome to the dinosaurs, the crowds posed a problem. Looking around, I spotted a window one flight up at the nearby corner. It was sight of the cameras which opened doors and the window like magic. Exposure were made at 1-125 second to eliminate camera motion while shooting and still get a good depth of field.

When we took time out for lunch, the giant lizards took the chance to barge off into the East River. A couple of photographers and myself gave chase in a small launch. We caught up with the dinosaurs near the United Nations building came in for a closeup. It was also our fadeout.

This picture story is one that amateur photographers can finish for themselves if they would like to do their own dinosaur hunting. The monsters will be "at home" for camera fans at the World's Fair next year. Better bring a wideangle lens for full length shots and a telephoto lens for portraits.

The largest eye found among land animals belongs to the ostrich. Keen vision and the ability to run 40 miles an hour protect this bird from its enemies.

Dylan Thomas Buried in Wales

By BOB WATTS

LAUGHARNE, Wales (AP)—Laugharne, said the late Welsh poet Dylan Thomas, is the sort of place where you get off the bus and forget to get on again.

He arrived here one day in 1933 and now his grave stands on a green hill overlooking this town by the sea in West Wales.

On Nov. 9 the locals will celebrate the 10th anniversary of his death.

Laugharne hasn't changed much since the day Thomas described it as a "... timeless, mild, beguiling island of a town with its seven public-houses, one chapel in action, one church, one factory, two billiard tables, one St. Bernard (without brandy), one policeman, three rivers, a visiting sea, one Rolls-Royce selling fish and chips, and a multitude of mixed birds."

The gulls and herons, several of whom he called by first name, still stand on the mud flats below the boat house where Thomas wrote a lot of his poems.

And Ebie Williams, 69, still dispenses kindness and liquor at Brown's Hotel, the sort of pub Thomas would have invented if it wasn't already there.

The green mamba snake, memento of some returned sailor, is still in its bottle of alcohol behind the bar; the chair and table still stand by the window where Thomas drank and played cards.

"I remember the day Dylan first came here with Augustus John the painter," says publican Williams.

"It was thru John that Dylan met his wife Caitlin. I used to drive them around. Dylan called me his chauffeur. He was a grand man.

"There's been a lot of criticism about the way Dylan behaved. But you won't hear a word against him in this town.

"He'd come in here in the morning about 11 o'clock and have a glass of beer and perhaps back a horse. Then he'd take a bottle of cider and go off to his log cabin, as he called it, to do a bit of writing.

"In the evening he'd come in about 7 or 8 and join in with the boys. He was always ready for a lark. When he got better known I used to drive him up to London in the car. He couldn't drive himself and never seemed interested in learning.

"He'd say, 'Come on cabbie,' and we'd be off to London. He always made me stop to pick up tramps. He was interested in what they had to say and I think he picked up a lot of information from them for his writing. Sometimes he'd give them a few shillings to get a drink."

Thomas died in New York on Nov. 3, 1953, a few days after his 39th birthday, during an American poetry reading tour.

The Welshman, unaccustomed to much adulation at home, once described the effects of these tours on the lecturers:

"Twittering all over, old before their time, with eyes like rissoles in the sand, they are helped up the gangway of the home-bound liner by kind bosom friends (of all kinds and bosoms) who bolster them on the back, pick them up again, thrust bottles, sonnets, cigars, addresses into their pockets, have a farewell party in their cabin, pick them up again, and, snickering and yelping are gone."

It was Ebie Williams who drove to Southampton to meet the liner United States and bring back Thomas's body to Laugharne.

"You should have seen the funeral," said Williams. "The procession stretched right thru the town to the church, all sorts and nationalities. We still get lots of people coming here to see where he lived. There are plenty of Americans and we recently had some Japanese and Italian students."

These literary detectives peer thru the window of the small shop where the poet's books are just visible among the seaside souvenirs and cigarettes, and visit the Milk Wood Restaurant, named after Thomas' play "Under Milk Wood."

And any small boy will direct them to the 13th Century graveyard and the plain wooden white cross stuck in the overgrown grave.

"In memory of Dylan Thomas died Nov. 9 1953 R.I.P. (rest in peace)" says the inscription.

An old glass jam jar stands on the grave with some dead wild roses in it.

It is utterly stark and simple. Somehow this seems just right.

A SIMPLE CROSS—Marks the grave of Welsh poet and playwright Dylan Thomas at Laugharne, Carmarthenshire, Wales. Bob Watts of the Associated Press visits the grave, shortly before the 10th anniversary of Thomas' death.

'Student Driver'

Raymond Massey, who stars as Dr. Gillespie on NBC-TV's "Dr. Kildare" series, wondered why he was getting smiles from motorists as he drove his Rolls Royce to the studio recently. It didn't take him long to discover the reason. When he got out of his car at MGM, where the series is filmed, he noticed that a practical joker had placed a sign on the back of the vehicle which read "student driver!"

Benny Holds Court

Jack Benny, master of the fast quip, held court recently at the Golden Rivet Ceremonies dedicating Universal City's multi-million-dollar building program. Said Benny: "I don't usually M. C. at this kind of an affair. In my 52 years of show business this is the first time I've ever appeared for a rivet — but it had to be gold."

LEISURETIME BOOKS by John Fetter

Foster Adds to Mountain Lore of Colorado Trails

ADVENTURES AT TIMBERLINE - By Jack Foster - Monitor - 95 cents - This 125-page softback pocketbook will come as a welcome addition to ghost town and Colorado addicts, who think - and justifiably so - that there is nothing grander than to follow an old, rock-strewn road to a ghost town, an old gold mine or mill, or just plain to the summits of a mountain pass.

Foster is editor of the Rocky Mountain News. Coming from the East, he became intrigued with the Colorado mountains, and with the past history, and the present ghost towns, trails, and scenery of his adopted state.

What may be of even better fortune for the reader is that Foster is a teller of tales, spinning the yarns, not only those which he heard, but yarns of his own, personal memories of trips with his constant companion, his wife Francesca, so that, as he says himself "through the mountains we found a deep sense of physical and spiritual beauty that we never had known in the hub-bub of New York, and we vowed to learn all that we could about them."

Learn they did - not through books, simply, but by personal experience. As Foster explains: "By Jeep, by horseback, by rubber raft, by narrow gauge train, by open cockpit plane and by foot we have explored every mountain range in the state and have slept in scores of places where mining cities once had been. Wherever we went, being newspapermen, we have noted what we saw and heard and felt - and thus this little has come into being."

The booklet, indeed, is a welcome addition to the libraries of the many mountain enthusiasts in Colorado, native and adopted.

THE OLD TRAILS WEST - By Ralph Moody - Crowell - $6.95 - This book on the old West is described by the publisher as "history spiced with the flavor of fiction."

The author tells the true story of the legendary routes that bound the Western wilderness. The Oregon Trail, El Camino Real, the Butterfield Overland Mail, the Santa Fe Trail, these and others are the trails that "blaze with the romance of the past."

Moody concentrates, however, more on the human stories behind them: What impelled their exploration, determined their paths, and how they contributed to the settling of the West.

MEN OF THE CONTRAIL COUNTRY - By Ed Mack Miller - Prentice Hall - $4.95 - A new book, "Men of the Contrail Country," by former Colorado Springs aviator-author Ed Mack Miller, was published Oct. 29 by Prentice-Hall, Inc.

The book is the second in three months by Miller, who formerly was employed by the Alexander Film Company. In August, his first novel, "Exile to the Stars," called by author William E. Barrett "the greatest novel of the jet age," was published by Doubleday & Co.

Miller is the author of some 700 published stories and articles, and one previous book, "Tales of a Flier's Faith," published by Doubleday in 1958.

Portions of "Men of the Contrail Country" are concerned with Colorado Springs and NORAD. One chapter credits Colorado Springs restaurateur Joseph Reich with having the original idea for placing the Air Force Academy near the Springs.

One of the chapters which may be of special interest to Air Force personnel deals with the members of the 3635th Flying Training Wing (Advanced). Their job is to teach the grim business of survival to air crews the hard way. They take them on hunger hikes, forcing them to live off the land. The airmen are allowed to eat any fur or feathered animals, including porcupines, rattlesnakes, or such insects as grasshoppers, or any flowering plant without a milky sap. The reader will be amazed," the publisher says, "at what a human being can eat in order to survive after a crash landing or a bailout in desert, jungle, tundra, or mountain country."

THE MAGIC AND MYSTERY OF WORDS. By J. Donald Adams. Holt, Rinehart. $3.50

Adams has a pleasant way of savoring, appreciating and using words, not as a deep-delving lexicographer or campus mossback, but as a practitioner of the art of writing.

He presents a series of essays—personal, opinionated and lively—about many aspects of the ever-changing thought symbols we use in our oral and written communications.

He considers many ideas on how words originated; the ways in which words affect us through vigorous slang words, the use and abuses of cliches and folk expressions; the gradation of taboo among four-letter words; the art of punctuation, the hazards of spelling.

He also considers the King James version of the Bible as a work of poetic merit, but of sometimes obscure meanings. He gets into the changing meanings of words and arouses psychological, even philosophical, questions about the difference expressed in the two words "talent" and "genius."

In examining the words of tomorrow he heaves more than one shudder when he encounters the gobbledygook of bureaucrats advertisers and sociologists.

Adams practices what he deftly perceives, for he writes well. He touches, sniffs and nibbles in fields which too often are desecrated by stuffy pedants, and brings forth engaging observations for all who enjoy using words.

Post Office Tests Mail Sorting

Post Office Department tests are underway to sort and cancel first-class mail by use of ultra-violet light.

The modified electronic facer-canceler machine is activated by postage stamps impregnated by phosphors that glow green or orange under special lamps.

Test quantities of five stamps have been phosphor-treated. They are the George Washington, Christmas and City Mail commemorative — all 5-cent stamps; the regular 4-cent and regular 8-cent airmail. The airmail stamp is extracted from the flow of mail, the result of an orange glow. The other stamps glow green.

All 130 million of the City Delivery stamps are "tagged" to test mass production techniques as a part of the study. Only limited numbers of the other items are treated.

Major cities now face and cancel mail through machines using photo electric cells. About 14 per cent error results, a major factor being that the cells cannot "recognize" mail unless there is strong color contrast between the stamp and the envelope. Brown envelopes, for example, slide into a reject channel in the machine and then must undergo expensive hand processing.

In preliminary tests last August, phosphor-tagged airmail was faced and cancelled with almost 100 per cent accuracy at a rate of 30,000 per hour.

The Aug. 1 test is regarded as the official "first-day of use" for phosphor-tagged stamps, so the Post Office Department will apply a special postal indicia to mail in the Dayton tests. However stamp collectors desiring covers bearing the tagged stamps may request this service from the Postmaster, Dayton, Ohio, 45401. Self-addressed envelopes, description of stamps requested and cost to cover should be enclosed.

The Dayton Postmaster will continue this service until the first of the year, mail will be processed as received and will bear the regular Dayton postmark.

Tagged stamps will also be available at the Philatelic Sales Agency, Post Office Department, Washington, D. C. 20260. The Christmas and 4-cent regular in tagged form will be available at the agency November 2. The 5-cent Washington, in sheet, coil and booklet forms, is available and the 8-cent airmail has been on sale for several months.

COLORADO SPRINGS KENNEL CLUB NOTES

by Mary Urban

Several members of the Colorado Springs Kennel Club have organized a group for obedience exhibitions free to any organization, school childrens group, 4-H scouts, etc. who might want a very interesting program of trained obedience dogs and their masters.

The following members and their dogs will take part in the programs: Fred Butler and his Doberman Pinscher, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Carlson and their two German Shepherds, Mrs. Pat Curran and her Shetland Sheepdog, Mrs. Harriet Pross and her German Shepherd and Mr. and Mrs. Howard B. Rossiter and their Miniature Pinschers and a Vizsla.

The exhibition can last from 15 minutes to an hour, depending on the time allotted for the program. The group will need a minimum space of 20x20 feet in which to work. They are willing to travel any reasonable distance with no cost at all to the group, requesting an exhibition. The group would like at least a week's notice in order for them to make their plans.

The exhibition will cover all phases of obedience training from novice thru utility. Not only will it be an interesting and entertaining program but it will also be an educational one.

Leader and trainer of the group is Howard Rossiter, 809 Grand Blvd., Security. Rossiter has been working in obedience for the past 13 years and in 1958, finished the first Miniature Pinscher to ever earn the UDT from AKC. This dog's name is Tessa, who has since retired from obedience competition but who will take part in the exhibition.

Rossiter has been taking part in these exhibitions for the past eight years and before arriving in Colorado Springs put on similar exhibitions in Greece while stationed there with the Air Force.

I have seen these members and their dogs work and I think they really can provide a very interesting and novel program, especially for children.

Arrangements for this obedience exhibition can be made with Rossiter or call me and I will relay the message.

If you have been reading this column regularly you may recall a story I wrote a few weeks ago concerning the mailman and his particular problem with biting dogs. I would like to quote a letter I received from William D. Wilson, secretary of the Letter Carriers of Colorado Springs. These men are members of the National Association of Letters Carriers, Pikes Peak Branch Number 204.

Dear Mrs. Urban:

The Letter Carriers of Colorado Springs wish me to extend their thanks for your article in the Colorado Springs Gazette Telegraph of Saturday, Oct. 19, 1963, concerning Letter Carriers and dog bites.

"Dog bites are a real serious menace in certain sections of our city. As Letter Carriers we appreciate your article and hope that it will move some people into keeping their pets confined, at least when the Letter Carrier is due."

I appreciated this letter of thanks and it makes me feel as if I am really doing some good with this column and also was my chance to relay a message from your hardworking mailman, who, after all, seldom gets a chance to express his views on his ever present problems.

Question about dogs may be directed to Mrs. Glenn Urban 495-2143.

Red Cross Stamp Released

A commemorative postage stamp marking the 100th anniversary of the founding of the International Red Cross was dedicated this week in ceremonies at the State Department auditorium in which Postmaster General John A. Gronouski said "The work of the Red Cross cannot be honored too much or too often."

In his remarks, Gronouski traced the development of the Red Cross from a small organization that functioned only in wartime to widely expanded services carried on by national Red Cross societies in more than one hundred nations.

"The Red Cross is today the foremost private international organization on earth," Gronouski declared. "When disaster or holocaust or conflict erupt anywhere on the globe, when men are in pain, or suffering, or in need, there is activity in the Geneva headquarters of the International Red Cross and aid soon is on the way."

The 5-cent commemorative postage stamp points to the Red Cross role in the Cuban Refugee program. Shown on the stamp are a group of refugees aboard ship, with the Red Cross flag flying overhead. Red Cross Photographer Rudolph Vetter made the photograph May 24, 1963 when the Morning Light dove into Port Everglades, Fla.

The refugees silhouetted against the sky are symbolic of the 8,970 Cuban civilians including 1,113 Bay of Pigs prisoners, who gained freedom in the United States between December, 1962 and July 1963.

One hundred thirty million of the red and black stamps have been printed.

The stamp is based on a pic-

Stamps in the News

Sam Houston, foremost figure in the history of Texas, appears in determined fashion holding a rifle in a new 5 cent U. S. stamp to be issued in his honor on Dec. 13. Houston, first president of the Republic of Texas, was also the first United States senator to represent that new state when it entered the Union in 1845.

The new stamp was designed by Tom Lea of El Paso, nationally known illustrator and painter.

Collectors desiring first-day cancellations should send envelopes together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Houston, Tex., 77002. The outside envelope should be marked "First Day Cover Sam Houston." Cover requests must be postmarked no later than Dec. 13.

Austria has issued a 1.50 schilling stamp commemorating Prince Eugene of Savoy's 300th birthday. Prince Eugene is one of the most beloved individuals in the history of Austria and helped that country become one of the great powers of Europe during his lifetime. The stamp features a vignette portrait of Prince Eugene and is dark violet in color.

The director of posts in Finland has announced that a set of two new stamps will be issued on Nov. 1 to honor 40 years of airway traffic in that country. One stamp will show a Convair C. V. 440 and the other will illustrate an S. E. 210 Caravelle plane. Also to be issued by Finland is a stamp commemorating the 150th anniversary of the birth of Matias Castren, noted explorer. Featured on the stamp is a portrait of Castren which is based on an oil painting now in Helsinki University.

San Marino has issued two new stamps to honor the 15th International Stamp Fair. One shows the outline of the San Marino government palace and a profile of the figure of St. Marinus. The other stamp depicts a modern statue which now stands in front of the Riccone Fair Palace.

Scotts 1964 Volume II Standard Postage Stamp Catalog contains 53,871 price changes found chiefly in the popular European issues with the accent on 19th Century and topicals such as Red Cross. This volume covers Europe, Asia and Africa. A total of 350 minor varieties have also been added to the book.

Four bicolored stamps were issued by Liberia to honor the 100th anniversary of the International Red Cross. The 5 cent shows the top surface of a globe with a Red Cross emblem. The 10 cent features the centenary emblem and a torch. The 25 ture taken by Red Cross photographer Rudolph Vetter on May 24, 1963, when the Morning Light docked at Port Everglades, Fla. The Red Cross assembled $53,000,000 worth of food and medicine, and furnished personnel, including special medical-nursing teams, and staffed the planes and ships.

cents air mail illustrates a globe and the Red Cross. The 50 cents air mail pictures a globe and the centenary emblem.

Vatican City has announced the issuance of two new stamps to mark the presentation of the Balzan Prize for Peace to Pope John. The 15 lire and the 160 lire depict the Pope on his throne. The stamps appear on the usual Vatican watermarked paper.

Berthoud Ski Area Opens

Berthoud Pass, 57 miles west of Denver on U.S. Highway 40, opened for skiing at 9 a.m. Friday.

John Bannerman, area manager, said the ski area received 10 inches of snow Thursday, and another six inches Thursday night which will be packed down to a seven-inch base.

Trails that will be open are The Face and the Back Trail, on the front and east sides of the mountain. Trails on the west side of the lift have not yet been groomed sufficiently, he said.

The ski area will be open from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Indianhead Mountain ski area 10 miles north of Grant off U.S. Highway 285 has not yet opened officially. However, ski school training programs will be conducted this weekend.
